TO TRIBE OF BEN HUR

Rev. C. G. Jordan Delivered an Impressive Address Last Evening.

The auditorium of the First Presbyterian church was packed last night to hear Rev. C. G. Jordan deliver an address to the Tribe of Ben Hur of this city.

The pastor took his text from the second chapter of Matthew and first verses. His illustrations were taken from the book of Ben Hur, by General Lew Wallace. He spoke of how the Egyptians preserved the bodies of their dead in order that their memories might be ever with the living. He then spoke of the custom of building monuments to the memory of the dead, and then said the lodge of Ben Hur had adopted a custom of keeping the memory of others and said it should always be kept up. The meeting of the three disciples in the desert was graphically described.

The pastor dwelt for some length upon the fact that all orders must be founded upon the principles of brotherly love in order to live, and that all men need the help of their fellow-men.

LAUNDRY GIRLS QUIT

SIXTEEN AT THE WOODBINE HAVE A GRIEVANCE.

Wanted Two Companions Who Were Laid Off Reinstated—The Firm's Position.

A strike of the girls employed at the Woodbine laundry is in progress. Sixteen girls have quit. The firm's statement of the trouble is that two girls were laid off temporarily, owing to work being slack. The others said they wanted these two reinstated and quit without notice, sending a committee to say that they would remain out until the girls who had been laid off were reinstated. The firm takes the ground that it cannot reinstate employees who have not been discharged and is paying no attention to the notice.

Mr. J. R. Hill said this morning that the laundry was receiving and sending out work as usual and would not be seriously inconvenienced by the strike.

The employees of the Woodbine take the stand that there was no necessity for the laying off of the members of the union, as they were busier last week than for months.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon and it was unanimously decided to demand the reinstatement of the two girls or refuse to go to work this morning. A committee was appointed to confer with Mr. Hill this morning, but he refused to see them.

IN MEMORY OF A DEAD BROTHER

CHAS. G. STEVENS THE MAN

To Whom Honor Was Paid By His Bhethren in the Order—Five Hundred Witnessed the Services at Spring Grove Cemetery.

The Woodmen of the World unveiled the monument of Charles G. Stevens, the first deceased member of the Pottery City Camp, at Spring Grove cemetery yesterday afternoon before an audience of about 500 people.

The exercises were most impressive and appropriate, illustrating the principles of the order.

Manley's band lead the local camp as they marched four abreast to and from the cemetery. The members left Odd Fellows' hall promptly at 2 o'clock and returned at 4, the march to the cemetery and return and the services having lasted just two hours.

Dr. George D. Arnun acted as master of ceremonies and H. L. Snyder as captain of the camp.

Rev. George C. Schleh, of Omaha, Neb., who was to have delivered the oration, was unable to reach here in time, and State Deputy M. D. Roche, of Cleveland, spoke in his stead.

The services at the grave were opened by the band who played "Nearer, My God to Thee." This was followed by the reading of the ritual by the master of ceremonies, at the close of which he directed the captain to "remove the veil and let God's sunlight shine on this tribute to our deceased sovereign."

The three chief officers of the local camp then stepped forward to the monument, in turn, and striking the stone three light taps with a tool of the Woodmen, pronounced the words "Love, Honor and Remembrance," and dedicated the monument to "Charles G. Stevens, our deceased brother and sovereign."

This was followed by the oration of the state deputy, which dealt chiefly with the principles of the order, calling attention to the fact that the Woodmen were the only fraternal organization in the world which erected monuments to the memory of their deceased members, in addition to paying sick benefits and insurance at death. At the close of the address he called attention to the fact that the Woodmen unveiled monuments in different parts of the country every Sunday, similar services being conducted yesterday at Beaver Falls and Toronto.

This concluded the services, which lasted about 30 minutes, and the order marched back in the order in which they came, arriving at their hall at about 4 o'clock. The band played several selections of appropriate music on the return march.

At Toronto yesterday Francy camp, No. 82, of the Woodmen of the World, unveiled a monument to James A. McFarland. The exercises at the cemetery were preceded by a parade of the members of the order, Brotherhood of Operative potters and the Toronto fire department, all of which the deceased was a member. Rev. F. P. Hummel, pastor of the M. P. church, delivered the oration.

CHANGES ARE CONTEMPLATED

Whereby Salineville Is Likely to Lose 200 of Its Mining Population.

DEAL AN IMPORTANT ONE

But the Money Consideration Is Not Known—Entry at the Big Vein Shaft Will Probably Be Done Away With And Another One Made.

Salineville, June 10.—(Special.)—The fact was made known here today that a deal has been closed, whereby the Cedar Hill Coal company has disposed of its mine located along the C. & P. railroad, two miles south of this city, to the Big Vein Coal company of Cleveland. The pecuniary consideration is not known, but the deal is the most important made here in years.

It is said that the transaction will result in the abandonment of the Big Vein mine and that the coal from it will be taken out through the entry of the Cedar Hill mine. A passage will be cut through which will connect the two, thus doing entirely away with the entry of the Big Vein shaft.

When this change takes effect it will mean the loss of at least 200 of Salineville's population, as the miners employed at the Big Vein mine will have to move to a locality in the vicinity of their work.

men who are furnishing the capital for this part of the road belong to the company which controls the Canton-Alliance road, and it is understood the entire road will be operated by the one company as soon as all the details of securing the right of way and necessary franchises have been completed.

The plan to enter Alliance over the local street railway track will necessitate a practical rebuilding of the entire road, as the rails are not heavy enough to support the heavy interurban cars with which the new road will be equipped.

William Garvey Met With a Serious Mishap on Saturday.

He was pressed closely and was in the act of starting to slide to the base when he struck his foot on a peg and was thrown violently to the ground. He was rendered unconscious, remaining so for 30 minutes, and when a physician was summoned it was discovered he had knocked the knee cap off his right leg. His injuries were dressed and he was assisted to his home, and although the member is very sore today he is able to be around with the aid of a cane.

Cedar Hill Company Sold Out to the Big Vein Company.

CHANGES ARE CONTEMPLATED

Whereby Salineville Is Likely to Lose 200 of Its Mining Population.

DEAL AN IMPORTANT ONE

But the Money Consideration Is Not Known—Entry at the Big Vein Shaft Will Probably Be Done Away With And Another One Made.

Salineville, June 10.—(Special.)—The fact was made known here today that a deal has been closed, whereby the Cedar Hill Coal company has disposed of its mine located along the C. & P. railroad, two miles south of this city, to the Big Vein Coal company of Cleveland. The pecuniary consideration is not known, but the deal is the most important made here in years.

It is said that the transaction will result in the abandonment of the Big Vein mine and that the coal from it will be taken out through the entry of the Cedar Hill mine. A passage will be cut through which will connect the two, thus doing entirely away with the entry of the Big Vein shaft.

When this change takes effect it will mean the loss of at least 200 of Salineville's population, as the miners employed at the Big Vein mine will have to move to a locality in the vicinity of their work.

EAST END

CHILDRENS' DAY

Observed With Impressive Exercises at Both East End Churches.

The children's day exercises at the Second Presbyterian church and the Second M. E. church last evening were attended by unusually large audiences, both churches being obliged to turn people away from their doors. This has frequently been the case at entertainments of this kind, and a number of the members of each congregation are considering the advisability of starting a subscription paper for the purpose of erecting the much-needed church edifices.

The work of the children at each church last evening was excellent. The programs consisted of about the usual number of class exercises, speeches and songs and they were rendered in a manner that held the undivided attention of the audiences throughout. The class singing was particularly fine. The teachers deserve praise for their careful work of training.

The noted specialist succeeded in performing the operation successfully and when Mrs. Chambers returned Saturday evening she was able to walk from the platform by means of her crutches without assistance from any person. She expects to be able to walk without crutches in a very short time.

SIX SKIRMISHES OCCURRED.

They Were Fought by Lieut. Wray's Men In Philippines—Six Insurgents Killed.

Manila, June 10.—The Philippine commission returned to Manila from the province of Nueva Ecija, Luzon, having organized a provincial government at San Isidro, capital of the province, with Captain Jacob F. Kreps, of the Twenty-second Infantry, as governor; Lieutenant Richard C. Day, of the Thirty-fourth volunteer Infantry, as treasurer, and Lieutenant De Witt C. Lyles, of the same regiment, as supervisor.

Judge Taft told the people that, if no power were given to levy customs, the expenses of the central government would be provided by additional internal taxes. He pointed out also that if the decision of the authorities at Washington should result in free trade with the United States, opening up such a great market, the increase in land values would enable the people to respond to the increased internal taxes.

Lieutenant Wray's command had six engagements with the insurgents in the province of Sorsogon, Luzon, killing six. Twenty-three insurgents were captured and at near Atimonan, province of Tayabas, and several minor are reported from other parts of Southern Luzon, where the insurgents are still active.

The report circulated in the United States that General Cailles had surrendered was undoubted.

Mr. Rockhill, who has been watching for an opportunity, cabled Secretary Hay for permission to make a proposition, and the secretary cabled him authority to do so.

It is believed that the ministers at Pekin have become involved beyond extrication in the present issues, and this proposition may be the only way out.

It is said, however, that the Japanese legation that when Japan is absolutely certain the other powers are evacuating their own troops can be withdrawn on two days' notice.

General Voyron, the French commander, has instructions to leave one brigade for service in China, and the French transports are en route. The British will have completed their departure by the end of September, 10 transports making two journeys to India.

WELLSVILLE

KEEPING THE SABBATH

Rev. Dr. Edward Thompson Addresses Large Congregations on This Theme.

The union meeting in the Methodist Episcopal church at 3 p. m. yesterday afternoon was well attended. Rev. Dr. Edward Thompson took for his text Phil. 2:4, "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." His theme was, "Is it possible to keep the Sabbath holy in this busy century?" He proved by numerous examples that it was not only possible but profitable to obey the scriptural command, and showed how the greatest men in the country had risen in the respect of all by doing so. He said the Sabbath was the foundation of American liberty. Ohio has been made great by her Sabbath observers, not by "sapheads" who go around playing ball on Sunday.

Dr. Thompson preached to a crowded house yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian church, describing the work of the Sunday league.

The committee from the several churches which will take charge of the Sunday American league work are as follows:

Methodist Episcopal—Dr. E. D. Holtz, John Davis, A. B. Stubbins, Mrs. A. R. Wells.

Second Presbyterian—Rev. C. L. V. McKee, J. M. Russell.

First Presbyterian—E. S. Noble, R. M. Smith, J. F. Donnelly, Mrs. H. S. Pierce, A. J. Demmler.

For the past two years Thomas M. Van Der Veer, claims agent of the Pennsylvania company, of this city, has been working on a similar invention. He arrived in Washington, D. ## WELLSVILLE

KEEPING THE SABBATH

Rev. Dr. Edward Thompson Addresses Large Congregations on This Theme.

The union meeting in the Methodist Episcopal church at 3 p. m. yesterday afternoon was well attended. Rev. Dr. Edward Thompson took for his text Phil. 2:4, "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." His theme was, "Is it possible to keep the Sabbath holy in this busy century?" He proved by numerous examples that it was not only possible but profitable to obey the scriptural command, and showed how the greatest men in the country had risen in the respect of all by doing so. He said the Sabbath was the foundation of American liberty. Ohio has been made great by her Sabbath observers, not by "sapsheads" who go around playing ball on Sunday.

Dr. Thompson preached to a crowded house yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian church, describing the work of the Sunday league.

The committee from the several churches which will take charge of the Sunday American league work are as follows:

Methodist Episcopal—Dr. E. D. Holtz, John Davis, A. B. Stubbins, Mrs. A. R. Wells.

Second Presbyterian—Rev. C. L. V. McKee, J. M. Russell.

United Presbyterian—J. T. Junkin, Miss Margaret Fraser, H. B. Andrews, Evangelical—Mrs. Martha Hunter.

Methodist—J. Secret, John Robinson, Mrs. James Leighton.

Christian—M. Glaser.

SALEM MAN TOO SLOW

A Westerner Two Days Ahead of Him In Getting a Patent.

Salem, June 10.—L. H. Bowman, a famous inventor of Walla Walla, Wash., is in the city, coming from Chicago. He has with him a model of his latest patent, a patent car ventilator. Railroad men all over the country consider it a great invention. Mr. Bowman was granted a patent Jan. 1, 1901.

For the past two years Thomas M. Van Der Veer, claims agent of the Pennsylvania company, of this city, has been working on a similar invention. He arrived in Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, this year, to secure a patent, but to his dismay found Mr. Bowman had preceded him two days and beat him out. Since receiving his patent Mr. Bowman has received thousands of letters, but out of that number, he only answered one, and that was sent by Mr. Van Der Veer. Mr. Bowman stopped off in this city on his way to see Mr. Van Der Veer.

FIVE MEN WERE KILLED.

Also Injured In the Wreck and Explosion on the Lackawanna.

Binghamton, N. Y., June 10.—Five men were killed and seven injured in the wreck at Vestal. The dead:

John P. Kelly, head brakeman of Lackawanna.

S. R. Polhamus, conductor of train No. 61.

Elmer Polhamus, trainman of train No. 61.

John Conner, fireman first engine of the wildcat freight.

Fred Witherby, fireman second engine of wildcat freight.

Seven others, all but two of them trainmen, were injured.

Several of those who were thought to be fatally hurt recovered from the concussion and figure in the list of lightly hurt. Portions of the last dismembered body to be accounted for were discovered about a quarter of a mile from where the explosion occurred, while the tracks of the Lackawanna and Western railroad were completely blocked until last night.

Both trains were completely wrecked and the engines of the wildcat freight, which ran into the rear of train No. 61, which was taking water at the time and which carried the fatal car of dynamite, were reduced to scrap iron, pieces of which have been picked up at a distance of half a mile away.

Aside from the damage to railroad property much minor damage is reported. Nearly every house in the villages of Vestal and Union, which is across the Susquehanna from the wreck, lost more or less of its window glass, while farmers' houses and barns near the scene were badly shattered. None of inmates, however, was injured.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

Large Crowd Expected at the National Meeting in Cincinnati Next Month.

Cincinnati, June 10.—Elaborate arrangements have been made for the twentieth international convention of the Christian Endeavor here, July 6 to 10. Other large choruses have been trained for the exposition and other halls, while all the churches and their choirs have been engaged for the occasion.

Hands will discourse sacred music in Washington park, adjoining Music hall, for the open-air meetings. Governor Nash, Mayor Fleischmann and coming committeemen will deliver welcome addresses Saturday afternoon.

July 6, President Clark will deliver his annual address and Secretary Baer will make his annual report Saturday evening. On Sunday morning there will be special addresses on "Twenty Years of Christian Endeavor." In the afternoon temperance rallies and in the evening meetings for Sabbath observance. The regular program will be meetings by sections on the four following days.

PULLMAN PENSION PLAN

Sleeping Car Company to Care
For Its Aged Employees.

VIEWED AS CO-OPERATIVE SCHEME

New System Will Embrace From 12,000 to 15,000 Office Men, Shop Hands and Colored Porters—Managing Board to Be Made Up From Officers of the Company.

Officials of the Pullman company are arranging the details for a pension department which will be established as soon as the plan is completed and approved by the directory, says the Chicago Record-Herald. It is said to be the purpose of the company to place in effect a system which will be comprehensive and liberal to a degree and which will embrace the total force of the company, numbering between 12,000 and 15,000 employees.

The fact that the Pullman force embraces in the neighborhood of 7,000 colored men, acting as porters on sleeping cars throughout the country, adds interest to the project. It is not known when the matter will be submitted to the directory, but it will probably be before the quarterly meeting in August. There is no doubt, however, that the members of the directory are in favor of a pension plan, and it is said that the suggestion to inaugurate one came from that body.

The preliminary work has not progressed very far. The auditor has been instructed to gather data regarding the number of men employed in the departments, the proper classification of the service and the number of years each employee has been in the service of the company.

These data have been furnished by several departments, and before long the company's attorney will begin drafting general rules and regulations for the government of the pension department. It is understood that the pension system will embrace the 500 or more employees in the general offices, the shop workmen in Pullman, Detroit, Wilmington, Del., and St. Louis and every porter in the company's employ. The capacity of the Wilmington shops is about to be doubled, which will add several hundred to the roster. In establishing a pension system the Pullman company will be following the lead of several of the railroads, notably the Illinois Central, the Pennsylvania and the Northwestern.

Generally speaking, the system will be managed by a board, to be made up of the officers of the company, which shall have the power to make and enforce rules, determine the eligibility of employees, fix the amount of allowances and prescribe the conditions under which they shall be paid.

It is understood that with shop hands and sleeping car porters the age of 60 years will be made the limit of service. Employees, however, who have reached the age of 55, and who have been continuously in the service of the company for ten years, may retire upon a pension. The ages of compulsory and voluntary retirement and the length of service required to entitle employees to receive pensions are yet to be determined. While the general plan used by the railroads will undoubtedly be followed in the Pullman system, it is likely that a wider latitude will be allowed owing to the character of the service.

The following basis of paying pensions is the popular one and will undoubtedly be considered by the company: For each year of service allowance of 1 per cent. of the average monthly pay received for the ten years preceding retirement; thus if an employee has been with the company for 40 years and has received on an average for ten years $50 per month regular wages, his pension allowance would be 40 per cent of $50, or $20 per month.

It is understood that a liberal sum will be set aside as a guarantee by the company that the pensions will be paid and that a rule will be put in force preventing the employment of persons who have reached a certain age.

In connection with the proposed system it is said that the officials of the company consider it in the light of a co-operative plan, inasmuch as it permits of an employee enjoying a fair proportion of the company's earnings after he becomes incapacitated by reason of old age.

The officials of large corporations are also beginning to view the pension plan as a safe and equitable solution of many labor difficulties, and it is generally believed that the practice of pensioning the aged will become general with companies demanding large capitalization.

The Pullman board to which the plan will be submitted is made up of the following: Marshall Field, O. S. A. Sprague, Henry C. Hulbert, Henry R. Reed, Robert T. Lincoln, Norman B. Ream, William K. Vanderbilt, J. Pierpont Morgan, F. W. Vanderbilt and W. Edward Webb.

The Mysterious Sunday Disease.

Many people are seemingly well during the week, but afflicted with all manner of ailments when Sunday comes around, and on Monday they are all well again. I really dread the approach of the Lord's day, for with the day there come to many of my flock colds, sick headaches, pain in the side and nausea, while numbers complain of "that languid feeling."

Sunday before last I spent really an anxious day, for there happened to be absent from the services quite a number, for the best of reasons, of course—a rushing in the head, a touch of sciatica, cramps, toothache, hardness of hearing, catarrh, torpid liver, inflammation of the membranes, lumbago and, worse than all, "that tired feeling."

Then, what greatly distressed me the next day was that Mrs. Henry Van Blarcom had issued invitations to an "at home" for that evening, and the fear well nigh paralyzed me that but few would respond, seeing many of her invited guests had been absent from the Sabbath services. Imagine, then, if you can, my profound surprise to see on that Monday evening so wholly unexpected, so general and complete a recovery, and when I made inquiry concerning the Sabbath ailments only two were able to recall what had really been the matter with them the day before.—A Minister in Christian Intelligence.

Playing For Keeps.

I have observed in the larger game of marbles which we call "making a living" that most of the boys are "playing for keeps" and only a few for fun and that those who are playing for keeps are the boys with the most influence and standing in the community. I know a whole lot of boys, some of them living in Massachusetts today, who are playing for keeps, but instead of marbles they are using wheat or corn or railroad stocks. No one of them knows just whom he is playing against, but each knows that for each dollar he wins a dollar is lost by some one else.

Nevertheless I am old fogey enough to say that for myself I do not regret my early training, nor am I ready to leave behind its principles, but as long as the majority of parents wish their boys to be successful it seems to me you ought to make it clear, that playing marbles for keeps is an excellent way of drilling boys in that acquisitiveness which will make it possible for them in after years to provide their wives and daughters with silk dresses, opera cloaks and automobiles.—Springfield Republican.

ware, Lackawanna and Western railroad were completely blocked until past midday. Both trains were completely wrecked and the engines of the Lackawanna, which ran into the rear of train No. 61, which was sitting water at the time and which carried the fatal car of dynamite, were reduced to scrap iron, pieces of which have been picked up at a distance of half a mile away.

Aside from the damage to railroad
property much minor damage is reported. Nearly every house in the village of Vestal and Union, which crossed the Susquehanna from the rock, lost more or less of its window glass, while farmers' houses and barns
near the scene were badly shattered, one of inmates, however, was injured.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

Large Crowd Expected at the National Meeting in Cincinnati Next Month.

Cincinnati, June 10.—Elaborate arrangements have been made for the fiftieth international convention of the Christian Endeavor here, July 6 to 10. As many were unable to attend the convention in London last year, a larger attendance than usual is expected, especially since these conventions hereafter will be held only once in two years. The choir of 1,500 trained voices will be a feature of the music hall. Other large attractions have been trained for the exposition and other halls, while all
the churches and their choirs have
been engaged for the occasion.

Plans will be discussed sacred music in Washington park, adjoining Music
hall, for the open-air meetings. Governor Nash, Mayor Fleischmann and several committees will deliver welcoming addresses Saturday afternoon,
July 6. President Clark will deliver his annual address and Secretary
Clark will make his annual report Saturday evening. On Sunday morning
there will be special addresses on
"Twenty Years of Christian Endeavor." In the afternoon temperance rallies and in the evening meetings for Sabbath observance. The regular program will be meetings by sections on the four following days.

had a stroke of paralysis and it was thought for over an hour that she was dead, but she finally rallied. The phyrecovery.

Inquiry regarding a brother whom she had not seen for years resulted in the reunion of Mrs. Margaret Schoenfelder, of Cincinnati, and her brother, William Uselton, of Beaver Falls. The woman will receive a fortune bequeath-entertainment was abandoned.

PULLMAN PENSION PLAN

Sleeping Car Company to Care
For Its Aged Employees.

VIEWED AS CO-OPERATIVE SCHEME

New System Will Embrace From 12-
000 to 15,000 Office Men, Shop
Hands and Colored Porters—Managing Board to Be Made Up From Officers of the Company.

Officials of the Pullman company are arranging the details for a pension department which will be established as soon as the plan is completed and approved by the directory, says the Chicago Record-Herald. It is said to be the purpose of the company to place in effect a system which will be comprehensive and liberal to a degree and which will embrace the total force of the company, numbering between 12,
000 and 15,000 employees.

The fact that the Pullman force embraces in the neighborhood of 7,000
colored men, acting as porters on sleeping cars throughout the country, adds interest to the project. It is not known when the matter will be submitted to the directory, but it will probably be before the quarterly meeting in August. There is no doubt, however, that the members of the directory are in favor of a pension plan, and it is said that the suggestion to inaugurate one came from that body.

The preliminary work has not progressed very far. The auditor has been instructed to gather data regarding the number of men employed in the departments, the proper classification of the service and the number of years each employee has been in the service of the company.

These data have been furnished by several departments, and before long the company's attorney will begin drafting general rules and regulations for the government of the pension department.

It is understood that the pension system will embrace the 500 or more employees in the general offices, the shop
workmen in Pullman, Detroit, Wilmington, Del., and St. Louis and every porter in the company's employ. The capacity of the Wilmington shops is about to be doubled, which will add several hundred to the roster. In establishing a pension system the Pullman company will be following the lead of several of the railroads, notably
the Illinois Central, the Pennsylvania
and the Northwestern.

Generally speaking, the system will be managed by a board, to be made up of the officers of the company, which shall have the power to make and enforce rules, determine the eligibility of employees, fix the amount of allowances and prescribe the conditions under which they shall be paid.

It is understood that with shop hands
and sleeping car porters the age of 60
years will be made the limit of service.
Employees, however, who have reached
the age of 55, and who have been continuously in the service of the company for ten years, may retire upon a pension. The ages of compulsory and voluntary retirement and the length of service required to entitle employees to receive pensions are yet to be determined. While the general plan used by the railroads will undoubtedly be followed in the Pullman system, it is likely that a wider latitude will be allowed owing to the character of the service.

The following basis of paying pensions is the popular one and will undoubtedly be considered by the company: For each year of service allowance of 1 per cent. of the average monthly pay received for the ten years
preceding retirement; thus if an employee has been with the company for 40 years and has received on an average for ten years $50 per month regular wages, his pension allowance would be 40 per cent of $50, or $20 per month.

It is understood that a liberal sum will be set aside as a guarantee by the company that the pensions will be paid
and that a rule will be put in force preventing the employment of persons who have reached a certain age.

In connection with the proposed system it is said that the officials of the company consider it in the light of a co-operative plan, inasmuch as it permits of an employee enjoying a fair portion of the company's earnings after he becomes incapacitated by reason of old age.

The officials of large corporations are also beginning to view the pension plan
as a safe and equitable solution of many labor difficulties, and it is generally believed that the practice of pensioning the aged will become general with companies demanding large capiti-alization.

The Pullman board to which the plan will be submitted is made up of the following: Marshall Field, O. S. A.
Sprague, Henry C. Hulbert, Henry R.
Reed, Robert T. Lincoln, Norman B.
Ream, William K. Vanderbilt, J. Pier-
pont Morgan, F. W. Vanderbilt and W.
Edward Webb.

The Mysterious Sunday Disease.

Many people are seemingly well during the week, but afflicted with all manner of ailments when Sunday comes around, and on Monday they are all well again. I really dread the approach of the Lord's day, for with the day there come to many of my flock
colds, sick headaches, pain in the side
and nausea, while numbers complain
of "that languid feeling."

Sunday before last I spent really an anxious day, for there happened to be absent from the services quite a number, for the best of reasons, of course—
a rushing in the head, a touch of sciatica, cramps, toothache, hardness of hearing, catarrh, torpid liver, inflamation of the membranes, lumbago and, worse than all, "that tired feeling."

Then, what greatly distressed me the next day was that Mrs. Henry Van Blarcom had issued invitations to an
"at home" for that evening, and the few well nigh paralyzed me that but few would respond, seeing many of her invited guests had been absent from the Sabbath services. Imagine, then, if you can, my profound surprise to see
on that Monday evening so wholly unexpected, so general and complete a recovery, and when I made inquiry concerning the Sabbath ailments only two were able to recall what had really been the matter with them the day before.—A Minister in Christian Intelligencer.

Playing For Keeps.

I have observed in the larger game
of marbles which we call "making a living" that most of the boys are
"playing for keeps" and only a few for fun and that those who are playing for keeps are the boys with the most influence and standing in the community. I know a whole lot of boys,
some of them living in Massachusetts
today, who are playing for keeps, but instead of marbles they are using wheat or corn or railroad stocks. No
one of them knows just whom he is playing against, but each knows that
for each dollar he wins a dollar is lost
by some one else.

Nevertheless I am old foggy enough to say that for myself I do not regret my early training, nor am I ready to leave behind its principles, but as long as
the majority of parents wish their boys to be successful it seems to me
you ought to make it clear, that playing marbles for keeps is an excellent way of drilling boys in that acquisitiveness which will make it possible for them in after years to provide their wives and daughters with silk dresses,
opera cloaks and automobiles.—Springfield Republican.

berland, known to the American stage

will be held today. He was born in New York city in 1836. He is said to have founded the order of Elks.

TAYLER ON THE TARIFF.

The views of Congressman Robert W. Tayler, of this district, recently expressed before the industrial commission, are attracting wide attention and much favorable comment. Mr. Tayler made two points. They are that trusts are harmful, but that tinkering with the tariff is not the way to curb them. He said the removal of the tariff on steel would probably hurt the steel trust to some extent, but it would do irreparable injury to the workingmen, and to the manufacturers of steel, tin plate and other products in the manufacture of which great quantities of iron and steel are used.

He maintained that the formation of any combination that gives men such great power as is wielded by the heads of the various trusts is a menace to the people. He ridiculed the idea that publicity would remedy or curb the trusts, and frankly stated he knew no remedy for them. He showed that the biggest trusts were greatly overcapitalized, and the inference may be drawn that the public will some day grow weary of buying watered stock at the behest of trust promoters.

Concerning the tariff, Mr. Tayler announced the general principle that the history of the country for the past few years and the present conditions demand that there should not be the slightest relaxing of the tariff principle as now embodied in the Dingley bill.

The relation of the tariff to trusts, he said, is only incidental. The Dingley law embodies, he said, the idea that the American civilization is on a higher plane than any other, and requires a higher reward for its labor to maintain that excellence. Whenever the labor cost is greater than elsewhere it is necessary that there should be an equalizing influence, such as the Dingley law. Primarily, therefore, the protective tariff was in the interest of labor. Even the farmer, he said, gets a reciprocal benefit. Trusts were not the outgrowth of protection, though some trusts might thrive under it, just as the sun might cause weeds to grow.

DOCTORED MILK.

A Cincinnati medical journal gives some hot weather advice that ought to be of value in this city, in view of the recent reports that "embalmed milk" is sold by certain local dairymen. The following extract from the Lancet-Clinic is certainly worthy the attention of others besides medical men:

"It is well that physicians should be on their guard in cases of sudden sickness in families, and ask for samples of milk, ice cream and butter used in the family for analysis. These samples should be submitted to the family druggist by the family physician for analysis. If formaldehyde is found as an explanation for the illness, civil suits for damages should be brought against the dairymen who vended the milk. Any of the large city newspapers could institute a searching examination of the milk supply of a city and attain startling results.

"The milk that does not sour during a thunder storm or remains unsoured in hot weather without ice is to be placed under the ban of suspicion. The milkman who carries his cans about in the hot sun without any pretense at keeping the same cool should be closely observed and his milk supply tested by the family druggist."

The folly of going to law over a trivial matter was illustrated in the common pleas court at Zanesville the other day when an action to recover damages for the killing of a dog was dismissed and the costs charged against the plaintiff. His experience in litigation cost that gentleman over $500, all for a dog probably not worth two cents, and the dog is still dead.

Columbiana, with a population of less than 1,500, is proud of having graduated 14 pupils from her high school at the recent commencement, and she has a right to be. The record is one seldom matched in a town of that size.

Damage suits and damage verdicts against the city of East Liverpool suggest that defective highways are an expensive luxury that could well be dispensed with.

Wellsville's school census shows a gain of 109 over last year. Wellsville is gaining in more ways than one.

OBITUARY.

Miss Annie Schad.

F. G. Oschmann, of Walnut street, on Saturday received a telegram which announced the death of his niece, Miss Annie Schad, at Chicago. Miss Schad was ill with consumption and several months ago left for a trip through California, Mexico and Arizona, in the hope of benefiting her health. The trip did her no good and she was on her way to her home in Pittsburg, but died at Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Oschmann and family will attend the funeral, which will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Francis Macauley.

Salem, June 10.—Francis Macauley died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Penman, Saturday. He was born in 1811, at Glasgow, Scotland, and has been a resident of this country for a number of years and ten years in this city. In 1836 he was married to Miss Margaret Gardner, whose death preceded her husband about 10 years. He was the father of nine children, three of whom are still living: Mrs. Thomas Steel, of New Philadelphia; Mrs. Alexander McCoy, of Youngstown, and Mrs. William Penman, of this city.

Mrs. Susan Smith.

Rogers, June 10.—(Special).—Mrs. Susan Smith died last night at 9 o'clock at the home of Charles Burson, near Rogers. She was 79 years old and an old resident of the county. She had been suffering from paralysis for many years. She was the mother of the late Judge P. C. Young. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 1 o'clock; interment at Achor.

John A. Staub.

Alliance, June 10.—The funeral of John A. Staub, who died Friday, was held here today. Mr. Staub was 79 years old and a Mexican war veteran. He was a railroad conductor for 18 years, but later in life was employed in the freight office here.

Colonel H. J. Barnes.

Warren, June 10.—Colonel H. J. Barnes, for years prominent in politics and business in Trumbull county, died at the sanitarium in Cuyahoga Falls. Mr. Barnes from 1880 to 1886 was recorder of Trumbull county.

Mrs. Samuel Middleton.

Information has been received at Leetonia of the death of Mrs. Samuel Middleton, at New Albany, Ind. Mrs. Middleton had spent her entire life in Leetonia and Washingtonville up to about a year ago, when the family moved to Indiana.

CATHOLIC JURISDICTION.

Gibbons Wants Washington Ablegate to Lock After Cuba.

Rome, June 10.—It was asserted in reliable quarters that Cardinal Gibbons, in the course of his frequent conferences with Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state, Mgr. Nozalada, archbishop of Manila, and other high ecclesiastics, in addition to effecting a settlement of the question of the properties of the religious orders in the Philippines, is negotiating for an extension to Cuba and the Philippines of the jurisdiction of the apostolic delegation at Washington.

Students May Quit University

Salina, Kan., June 10.—A committee, representing the students of the Kansas Wesleyan university, who are a unit in defense of Dr. Frank D. Tubbs, professor of natural science, dismissed last week, on account of alleged heresy, issued a manifesto denouncing the board of trustees for "duplicitous and unfairness." The board agreed to allow Dr. Tubbs a hearing next week, but still positively refuses to reinstate him. The incoming junior and senior classes still seem determined to carry out their threat to leave the university if the trustees shall not accede to their demands.

Funeral of Horace Pell.

New York, June 10.—The body of Horace Porter Pell, the young actor and former society man of New York, whose tragic death occurred in Cleveland, O., several days ago, was buried Sunday afternoon in the Pell family burial lot in Trinity cemetery, New Rochelle. Funeral services were held at the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. R. R. Upjohn, assistant rector of the church, officiated. The services were attended, besides the family, by a large number of both the society and theatrical friends of the deceased.

CLEANINGS OF A DAY

THE LOCAL POTTERIES

There is considerable discussion among the potters here on scheme orders, says the East Liverpool correspondent of the Crockery and Glass Journal. These seem to be increasing in number and volume, and are really a menace and damage to prices and good potting, especially when trade begins to show a little dullness. There is a single coffee and spice house in one of Ohio's inland towns that is said to use six carloads of pottery a month in its scheme trade. These goods are given away with sales and are bought at prices in most instances 'way below the regular sales schedule. This not only has a depressing effect on the regular market, but has a tendency to sloppy manufacturing. The goods are taken at reduced prices and are to be given away; hence manufacturers are inclined to rush them through with little care, and in the cheapest, roughest manner. And this is not all.

We are told on the authority of some of the best practical manufacturers that operatives get demoralized by this and fall into the habit of doing rough work. They thus deteriorate productions where the best are required. These scheme goods go out in some instances with the pottery's band on and are distributed to families all over the country. Although the latter can't complain if the quality of goods given away doesn't prove to be satisfactory, yet they form a poor opinion of the pottery whose brand is on them, and are pretty sure not to buy any of this brand when purchasing. If it is unbusiness-like to take scheme orders at reduced prices, it is more so to turn the goods out below grade.

James Hall, who is employed at the Laughlin No. 2, was struck in the forehead by a falling brick and received a painful wound while drawing kiln Saturday afternoon. ## MERELY SUPERSTITION.

PEASANTRY IMAGINE FIRING OF CANNONS KEEPS OFF HAIL.

Prof. Moore Issues a Statement Regarding Experiments Made in France.

Washington, June 10.—The extensive reports of United States Consul Covert, at Lyons, France, relative to the success of cannon firing France as a means of protecting orchards and vineyards from hail storms, and also for the purpose of mitigating or nullifying the effects of frosts upon vegetation, have prompted numerous inquiries by horticulturalists in this country as to when, if at all, our government would adopt similar methods of protection.

Prof. Willis L. Moore, the chief of the weather bureau, acting under direction of Secretary Wilson, therefore has issued to the press the following statement:

"After an examination of all that has been published during the past two years, my conviction is that we have here to do with a popular delusion as remarkable as is the belief in the effect of the moon on the weather. The uneducated peasantry of Europe seem to be looking for something miraculous. They would rather believe in cannonading as a means of protection and spend on it abundance of money, time and labor than adopt the very simple expedient of mutual insurance against the losses that must inevitably occur.

"The great processes going on in the atmosphere are conducted on too large a scale to warrant any man or nation in attempting to control them. The energy expended by nature in the production of a hail storm, a tornado or a rain storm exceeds the combined energy of all the steam engines and explosives in the world. It is useless for mankind to combat nature on this scale.

"After the experience that this country has had during the past 10 years with rainmakers I am loath to believe that the bombardment of hail storms will ever be practiced or even attempted in the United States, much less encouraged by the intelligent portion of the community. Every effort should be made to counteract the spread of the Italian delusion which has been imported into this country by Consul Covert."

Consul Smith, of Leghorn, says that Italy is making constant progress in the development of its manufacturing industries, especially in the northern section. A more extended market is

men on hand to begin to lay brick on next Wednesday morning.

John Williams, the giant kiln hand at the East End plant, returned to his home at Trenton, N. J., this morning, having been called there by the serious illness of his little daughter. He will probably return to East Liverpool soon, bringing his family with him.

Mrs. John Goodwin, of Longton, Staffordshire, England, arrived in this city Saturday evening. She was met in New York by her husband, who has been employed at the West End plant for some time. They will make their home in this city.

A. J. Allison, formerly of Toronto, has resigned his position as boss kilnman at the Canonsburg pottery, and returned to East Liverpool, on which occasion his fellow workmen presented him with a fine gold headed umbrella.

Thomas Robinson, manufacturing manager of the George C. Murphy Pottery company, will set out June 29 for a two months' trip through Great Britain.

T. W. Bradshaw has resigned his position in the decorating department at Thompson's, and left Saturday afternoon for his home at Niles.

Harry Hunter resigned his position at William Brunt's Saturday and left this morning for Salem, where he expects employment.

Richard Foutts has resigned his position at the Cartwright plant, owing to illness. His place was taken by John Miller.

Miss Clara Tucker, who is employed in the warehouse at the National plant, is off duty on account of illness.

The foundation for a new kiln to be erected at the Cartwright plant was commenced today.

Harry Holsman, who is employed at the National plant, spent Sunday with friends at Lisbon.

offered for American machinery and tools. Consul Cramer, of Florence, notes among the imports from the United States into that section bicycles, leather, tools, locks, cotton, oil, tobacco, agricultural machines, dynamos, watches, asbestos, corn, salated meat, lard, India rubber goods and books.

Consul Heingartner, of Catania, says that American revolvers are finding a large sale in Sicily; also our sewing machines, lard and lubricating oils. The Catania branch house of a sewing machine company sold 714 machines last year. Shooks also are arriving from Maine in large quantities.

Consul Johnson, of Venice, notes that the Paris exposition was the means of bringing the improved American printing presses to the attention of local journals, which are now installing the new apparatus.

There is a demand in Venice for oil cloth and stoves, and the consul regrets that merchants who have written to American manufacturers of these articles have received no answer.

Consul Jarvis says that Milan is developing rapidly and is in a prosperous condition. When the Simplon tunnel is opened business will be still further improved. American agricultural machinery, he adds, holds the market in that section of the country. More of it is used than ever before. Traction engines, not yet introduced, would find a market if of one cylinder, 20 effective horse power, and of not more than 13 tons gross. The sale of cash registers and typewriters is increasing. Many of our canned goods are found on the shelves of the leading grocers.

There is a chance for American stoves of a cheap pattern, also for leather, both raw and made up as belting, trunks and shoes. The trade in office and house furniture could be extended, and American cutlery and machine tools for iron and wood industries would find a market.

TAYLER ON THE TARIFF.

The views of Congressman Robert W. Tayler, of this district, recently expressed before the industrial commission, are attracting wide attention and much favorable comment. Mr. Tayler made two points. They are that trusts are harmful, but that tinkering with the tariff is not the way to curb them. He said the removal of the tariff on steel would probably hurt the steel trust to some extent, but it would do irreparable injury to the workingmen, and to the manufacturers of steel, tin plate and other products in the manufacture of which great quantities of iron and steel are used.

He maintained that the formation of any combination that gives men such great power as is wielded by the heads of the various trusts is a menace to the people. He ridiculed the idea that publicity would remedy or curb the trusts, and frankly stated he knew no remedy for them. He showed that the biggest trusts were greatly overcapitalized, and the inference may be drawn that the public will some day grow weary of buying watered stock at the behest of trust promoters.

Concerning the tariff, Mr. Tayler announced the general principle that the history of the country for the past few years and the present conditions demand that there should not be the slightest relaxing of the tariff principle as now embodied in the Dingley bill.

The relation of the tariff to trusts, he said, is only incidental. The Dingley law embodies, he said, the idea that the American civilization is on a higher plane than any other, and requires a higher reward for its labor to maintain that excellence. Whenever the labor cost is greater than elsewhere it is necessary that there should be an equalizing influence, such as the Dingley law. Primarily, therefore, the protective tariff was in the interest of labor. Even the farmer, he said, gets a reciprocal benefit. Trusts were not the outgrowth of protection, though some trusts might thrive under it, just as the sun might cause weeds to grow.

DOCTORED MILK.

A Cincinnati medical journal gives some hot weather advice that ought to be of value in this city, in view of the recent reports that "embalmed milk" is sold by certain local dairymen. The following extract from the Lancet-Clinic is certainly worthy the attention of others besides medical men:

"It is well that physicians should be on their guard in cases of sudden sickness in families, and ask for samples of milk, ice cream and butter used in the family for analysis. These samples should be submitted to the family druggist by the family physician for analysis. If formaldehyde is found as an explanation for the illness, civil suits for damages should be brought against the dairymen who vended the milk. Any of the large city newspapers could institute a searching examination of the milk supply of a city and attain startling results.

"The milk that does not sour during a thunder storm or remains unsoured in hot weather without ice is to be placed under the ban of suspicion. The milkman who carries his cans about in the hot sun without any pretense at keeping the same cool should be closely observed and his milk supply tested by the family druggist."

The folly of going to law over a trivial matter was illustrated in the common pleas court at Zanesville the other day when an action to recover damages for the killing of a dog was dismissed and the costs charged against the plaintiff. His experience in litigation cost that gentleman over $500, all for a dog probably not worth two cents, and the dog is still dead.

Columbiana, with a population of less than 1,500, is proud of having graduated 14 pupils from her high school at the recent commencement, and she has a right to be. The record is one seldom matched in a town of that size.

Damage suits and damage verdicts against the city of East Liverpool suggest that defective highways are an expensive luxury that could well be dispensed with.

Wellsville's school census shows a gain of 109 over last year. Wellsville is gaining in more ways than one.

OBITUARY.

Miss Annie Schad.

F. G. Oschmann, of Walnut street, on Saturday received a telegram which announced the death of his niece, Miss Annie Schad, at Chicago. Miss Schad was ill with consumption and several months ago left for a trip through California, Mexico and Arizona, in the hope of benefiting her health. The trip did her no good and she was on her way to her home in Pittsburg, but died at Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Oschmann and family will attend the funeral, which will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Francis Macauley.

Salem, June 10.—Francis Macauley died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Penman, Saturday. He was born in 1811, at Glasgow, Scotland, and has been a resident of this country for a number of years and ten years in this city. ### Mrs. Susan Smith.

Rogers, June 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Susan Smith died last night at 9 o'clock at the home of Charles Burton, near Rogers. She was 79 years old and an old resident of the county. ## CATHOLIC JURISDICTION.

Gibbons Wants Washington Ablegato to Lock After Cuba.

Rome, June 10.—It was asserted in reliable quarters that Cardinal Gibbons, in the course of his frequent conferences with Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state; Mgr. Nozal, archbishop of Manila, and other high ecclesiastics, in addition to effecting a settlement of the question of the properties of the religious orders in the Philippines, is negotiating for an extension to Cuba and the Philippines of the jurisdiction of the apostolic delegation at Washington.

Students May Quit University.

Salina, Kan., June 10.—A committee, representing the students of the Kansas Wesleyan university, who are a unit in defense of Dr. Frank D. Tubbs, professor of natural science, dismissed last week, on account of alleged heresy, issued a manifesto denouncing the board of trustees for "duplicitous and unfairness." The board agreed to allow Dr. Tubbs a hearing next week, but still positively refuses to reinstate him. The incoming junior and senior classes still seem determined to carry out their threat to leave the university if the trustees shall not accede to their demands.

Funeral of Horace Pell.

New York, June 10.—The body of Horace Porter Pell, the young actor and former society man of New York, whose tragic death occurred in Cleveland, O., several days ago, was buried Sunday afternoon in the Pell family burial lot in Trinity cemetery, New Rochelle. The services were attended, besides the family, by a large number of both the society and theatrical friends of the deceased.

In and About

THE LOCAL POTTERIES

There is considerable discussion among the potters here on scheme orders, says the East Liverpool correspondent of the Crockery and Glass Journal. These seem to be increasing in number and volume, and are really a menace and damage to prices and good potting, especially when trade begins to show a little dullness. There is a single coffee and spice house in one of Ohio's inland towns that is said to use six carloads of pottery a month in its scheme trade. These goods are given away with sales and are bought at prices in most instances 'way below the regular sales schedule. This not only has a depressing effect on the regular market, but has a tendency to sloppy manufacturing. The goods are taken at reduced prices and are to be given away; hence manufacturers are inclined to rush them through with little care, and in the cheapest, roughest manner. And this is not all.

We are told on the authority of some of the best practical manufacturers that operatives get demoralized by this and fall into the habit of doing rough work. They thus deteriorate productions where the best are required. These scheme goods go out in some instances with the pottery's band on and are distributed to families all over the country. Although the latter can't complain if the quality of goods given away doesn't prove to be satisfactory, yet they form a poor opinion of the pottery whose brand is on them, and are pretty sure not to buy any of this brand when purchasing. If it is unbusiness-like to take scheme orders at reduced prices, it is more so to turn the goods out below grade.

The smallpox at New Cumberland is spreading. Three houses are now under quarantine. In one of these a man and his wife are both down with the disease and four children are shut up with them. In another one, a shanty boat, the man is down with the disease and his wife and seven children are quarantined in the boat with him.

In all of these cases the attending physicians have pronounced the disease smallpox. Physicians have been kept busy investigating, but only the genuine cases have developed. All of the nearby towns are said to be strongly in favor of quarantining against New Cumberland.

MILL TO START SOON

Chester People Assured That the Plant Will Not Be Idle Long.

Chester people are excited over the various contradictory reports concerning the rolling mill. The general belief is that the mill will be put in operation as a tin plate mill at no very distant date. A positive statement to this effect was made by John Shrader, a Chester people this morning, and it is reported by good authority that W. H. Banfield also gave this information when he visited the mill Saturday.

A new engine and some new machinery arrived at the mill Saturday and the force of men who were dismantling the plant were dismissed this morning. All of the machinery which was originally placed in the mill has been removed.

Of course the machinery which has been removed could not be used for making tin plate. Nothing is being done at the mill today and the next move is awaited with much anxiety.

The three women and the man who were arrested on Gallagher's shanty boat on Memorial day and sentenced to 30 days in jail by Justice Johnston, were released by the authorities at New Cumberland Saturday, after having served 10 days. The quartet came back to East Liverpool at once. Some legal technicalities were involved in the sentence and it was claimed by the prisoners' counsel that a justice of the peace had no power to sentence any one for more than 10 days.

The object of the sheriff was to break up the resort, and as the boat had been removed to Pittsburgh it was deemed useless to retain the prisoners at the jail longer.

MURDER TRIAL IN GROVE.

Preliminary Hearing. With About
2,000 Spectators.

Galena, Mo., June 10.—An unusual scene was presented here at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. John Stallion, for the murder of Alice Stallion, the woman's 15-year-old step-daughter. The hearing was being held in a grove, the two justices sitting at a table under a tree, and about 2,000 people, attracted from points for miles around, forming a circle about the court and defendants.

Threats had been made against the Crabbrees by many of the strangers in town and the county officials were taking all the precaution at their command to protect the prisoners. Galena is on the railroad, and the fact that 2,000 people would care to come miles to attend the hearing is considered significant.

It had been intended to exhume the body of the girl that it may be examined to investigate a theory of the county prosecutor that a criminal assault was made upon her by one or both of the Crabbree boys, and that they killed her to hide the crime.

A CONSECRATION MEETING

Held by Members of International Missionary Union, at Clifton Springs, N. Y.

Clifton Springs, N. Y., June 10.—From about 9 o'clock until about 10 o'clock Sunday morning the members of the International Missionary union held a consecration. Afterwards the Rev. S. L. Baldwin, vice president of the union, preached the annual missionary sermon, his remarks being relative to the duties and obligations of the work in the foreign field. In the afternoon the Y. M. C. A. and student volunteer meeting was called to order by Dr. C. P. W. Merrim, of Chicago. It consisted of Scripture reading by the Rev. David Downie, of Indiana; prayer by the Rev. E. Sherwood, of Turkey, and short addresses by H. B. Beach, of China; the Rev. H. M. Lawson, on work among young men in India; Dr. F. Howard Taylor, on work among medical students in America; and Mrs. Howard Taylor, on work among young women in America.

Fish and the Alphabet.

Perhaps the funniest thing to be told respecting the antiquity of fishing relates to the holy wars which were waged in ancient Egypt over the funny denizens of the water, the conflicts arising from the circumstance that, as often happened, one tribe would insist with the utmost reverence upon eating up the fishes which the inhabitants of an adjoining territory held in divine adoration.

The child of today, in learning his alphabet, calls the letters by their names simply because the ancient Phoenicians were pleased to make similar figures the symbols of certain sounds, and it is thought very likely that the Phoenicians have been driven to invent that alphabet by the necessity of corresponding with peoples of various tongues incidentally to the great commerce which grew out of the fishery.

A notable event in the history of the Masonic order at Leetonia was the inspection of Leetonia lodge, No. 401, F. & A. M., in that town Friday night, an unusual feature for an event of this kind in a city of the grade of Leetonia being the presence of the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand lodge of Ohio.

Work in the third degree was followed with the inspection of O. P. Sperra, of Ravenna, Right Worshipful Grand Junior Warden of the Grand lodge of Ohio. F. S. Harmon, of Akron, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand lodge of Ohio, was present as a guest.

After the degree work and inspection, the Leetonia lodge, with their visiting brethren from Salem, Lisbon, Columbiana, Pittsburg, and other points, sat down to an elegant banquet in the opera house. The banquet was served by the ladies of the Christian Endeavor society. Addresses were made by the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Right Worshipful Grand Junior Warden, Dr. T. T. Church, as Master of the Salem lodge, and J. R. Flickinger, as Master of the Columbiana lodge.

Eureka circle No. 86, elected the following officers at the meeting last Tuesday night: President, Bert Herschler; vice president, Charles Hansen, Jr.; guardian, Elmer McDevitt; secretary, D. F. White; accountant, Zed T. Smith; treasurer, J. B. Elliott; chaplain, T. W. McCain; guide, W. C. Smith; porter, Joe Pollock; watchman, Louis Marsh. Five new members were initiated at this meeting. At the recent biennial convention of the Supreme circle of Ohio, a new law was passed. The one most important to local members makes the term of office one year instead of six months as has been the case heretofore. The change met with general favor.

The Ladies of the Golden Eagle on Friday night held a social and dance after their meeting. It was found the piano had been moved out. A large crowd was in attendance and the ladies, not wishing to disappoint them, secured a mandolin club and proceeded with the entertainment. Although the program had to be cut out an enjoyable time was had by all present.

The Odd Fellows Building company, of Youngstown, has closed an option on the Webb property, on West Boardman street, and will erect thereon its new temple and Odd Fellows club house. The lot is 33x150 feet in dimensions, and the price paid was $7,800. The proposed building is to cost $26,000.

Iroquois Tribe No. 40, Improved Order of Ren Men, at their meeting last Thursday evening, initiated two and conferred the chief's degree on one candidate. The order is at present making arrangements to confer the Haymaker's degree on 20 candidates in about two weeks.

Rev. G. W. Gorrell, of the Christian church, yesterday preached an impressive sermon to the Knights of the Golden Eagle, they attending church in a body.

Violets of the Coal Age.

Botanists of Luzerne county are interested in a strange discovery made recently along the Susquehanna river south of Pittston, Pa. The members of a class found a species of violets growing in a solid bank of coal, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. The roots were imbedded in the coal, and their origin is traced, it is said, to seeds of the coal age.

SMALLPOX SPREADS

NEW CUMBERLAND NOW REPORTS FOUR CASES.

Three Houses Are Under Quarantine And Much Uneasiness Is Felt.

The smallpox at New Cumberland is spreading. Three houses are now under quarantine. In one of these a man and his wife are both down with the disease, and four children are shut with them. In another one, a shanty boat, the man is down with the disease and his wife and seven children are quarantined in the boat with him.

In all of these cases the attending physicians have pronounced the disease smallpox. Physicians have been kept busy investigating, but only the four genuine cases have developed. All of the nearby towns are said to be strongly in favor of quarantining against New Cumberland.

MILL TO START SOON

Chester People Assured That the Plant Will Not Be Idle Long.

Chester people are excited over the various contradictory reports concerning the rolling mill. The general belief is that the mill will be put in operation as a tin plate mill at no very distant date. A positive statement to this effect was made by John Shrader, a several Chester people this morning, and it is reported by good authority that W. H. Banfield also gave out this information when he visited the mill Saturday.

A new engine and some new machinery arrived at the mill Saturday and the force of men who were dismantling the plant were dismissed this morning. All of the machinery which was originally placed in the mill has been removed.

Of course the machinery which has been removed could not be used for making tin plate. Nothing is being done at the mill today and the next move is awaited with much anxiety.

PRISONERS SET FREE

Those Arrested on the Gallagher Shanty Boat Served But a Short Time.

The three women and the man who were arrested on Gallagher's shanty boat on Memorial day and sentenced to 30 days in jail by Justice Johnston, were released by the authorities at New Cumberland Saturday, after having served 10 days. The quartet came back to East Liverpool at once. Some legal technicalities were involved in the sentence and it was claimed by the prisoners' counsel that a justice of the peace had no power to sentence any one for more than 10 days.

The object of the sheriff was to break up the resort, and as the boat had been removed to Pittsburg it was deemed useless to retain the prisoners at the jail longer.

MURDER TRIAL IN GROVE.

Preliminary Hearing. With About 2,000 Spectators.

Galena, Mo., June 10.—An unusual scene was presented here at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. John Stallion, her father, James Crabtree, and his two sons, Frank and Charles Crabtree, for the murder of Alice Stallion, the woman's 15-year-old step-daughter. The hearing was being held in a grove, the two justices sitting at a table under a tree, and about 2,000 people, attracted from points for miles around, forming a circle about the court and defendants.

Threats had been made against the Crabtrees by many of the strangers in town and the county officials were taking all the precaution at their command to protect the prisoners. Galena is off the railroad, and the fact that 2,000 people would care to come miles to attend the hearing is considered significant.

It had been intended to exhume the body of the girl that it may be examined to investigate a theory of the county prosecutor that a criminal assault was made upon her by one or both of the Crabtree boys, and that they killed her to hide the crime.

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

"I trust that nobody will forgive me until I ask for forgiveness," I said.

She looked at me, her eyes full of rebellion. I thought she was going to raise her hand to strike me, but women are so changeable and uncertain. Instead she held out her hands meekly.

I bound her wrists together and noticed that they were white and well mottled. The handkerchief was soft and could not pain her at all, and, besides, her hands were bound in front of her and not behind her. She need feel no inconvenience, but she must realize that her opportunities for mischief were diminished vastly. Old Put looked at her with an air of triumph, as much as to say, "Now, miss, you are being punished, and punished deservedly, for beating me so much." That seemed to be her own understanding of herself.

We resumed our march, the horses walking behind us. The rim of the sun was now meeting the rim of the earth, and the western skies were tinged with ruddy fire. In the east the misty gray of twilight was descending on field and forest, and the chill of night was creeping over everything. Even in our South Carolina latitudes the nights are cold in midwinter, and I shivered as a twilight wind, with a raw edge to it, swept over the plain.

There was a heavy cloak hanging at her saddle horn, for she had not ventured upon her journey unprepared. I took it off and threw it over her shoulders. It fell below her waist like a great coat, and I buttoned it securely around her neck.

"You are a barbarian," she said. "I know it," I replied, "but I do not intend to let you suffer more than is necessary for your own good. That is the kind of barbarians we are in this country."

The country was lone and desolate, for we were on the sterile slopes of the hills. It was thinly peopled at the best of times, but now, raided incessantly by Tarleton's legion, which knew no mercy to anything, whether animate or inanimate, and plundered, too, by wild bands which claimed to belong to either army, as the occasion served, and perhaps belonged to neither, the people had fled to sequestered regions, where one side or the other was master. Only those who have seen it know the sufferings of a country harried by opposing armies and predatory bands. I had hoped to find some friendly farmer bolder than the rest with whom my prisoner and I could find shelter, or if not that, at least some abandoned house which would give us a roof, but I saw no sign of a human face except our own, and no roof appeared either in the fields or among the trees. It was a solitude bleak and cold, and the declining sun, now half way behind the earth, warned me that it would soon be time to stop, for the darkness would be upon us, and in a land of hills, gullies and no roads we could not travel well without light.

Despairing of such shelter as I had expected, I turned our course toward a thick grove of trees rising like a great castle on the left. When we entered it, the shadows already made darkness there, and the night wind moaned among the dry branches of the trees. I saw the girl shiver, and again I felt pity for her in spite of all that she tried to do, though I lost none of my distrust and caution.

Almost in the center of the grove was a small open space, sheltered from the rush of cold air by the great trees which grew so thickly around it. It seemed to me to be the likeliest spot we could find for a camp. I hitched the horses to boughs of the trees and took from my pocket a small flask of that cheer which a good soldier seldom neglects. I drew the stopper and handed it to the girl. "Take a little of this," I said. "You must if you do not expect to catch your death of cold."

"I would if I could," she said, "but I cannot while my hands are tied."

I unbound her wrists and replaced the handkerchief in my pocket.

Her face flushed.

"You can't escape it," I said, "and the king can't hang me before he catches me. It's a long way from London to South Carolina, and I hear the king is fat and lazy and suffers from seasickness."

But she drank the whisky, just a little of it, though enough to put more sparkle in her eye, and handed the flask

to me without a word of thanks. Then she sat down on a fallen tree and looked idly in front of her as if she had no interest whatever in anything.

I gathered up armfuls of the dry brushwood and tossed them into a heap, to which I set fire with the flint and steel I always carried. The fire blazed up rapidly and snapped as it bit through the wood. Its merry crackling drowned the desolate moan of the wind, and the long red ribbons of flame and the fast forming bed of live coals threw out a kindly heat that fended off the chill of the night. Even the girl, angry and humiliated as she seemed to be, felt the influence of the light and warmth and edged along the log until she was much closer and the fire could shine directly upon her face. Old Put was frank in his appreciation, coming to the full length of his tether and wagging his head in a manner which said to me as plain as day, "You have done well."

Even the stupid brown hack understood and imitated Old Put's example. Higher rose the fire and drove back the shadows, but the darkness was now rolling up to the circle of light, and beyond the sparkle of the flames began to rise like a wall. The sun was gone, and a faint, fading pink tint in the west marked the way his flight had taken him. Over all the world the twilight drooped, and the winter wind mourned the dead day.

"Are there ghosts in the forest?" suddenly asked the girl.

"None that I ever heard of," I said. "It is so unlike England."

"How?"

"So much wilder."

I had heard of their forests there, or rather what they call forests—some acres of trees, with the undergrowth cut away and the lawns shaven, every rod

patrolled by keepers or workmen, a mere plaything of a forest—but here in America are the real forests, just as nature made them, the desolate wilderness through which the wild animals howl, while the lone wind plays its song on the branches or leaves of the trees. This is the real forest, a place in which man becomes about as big as a cork on the sea. Never the lone hunter, though 50 years his home, fails to feel its immensity and desolation. The girl drew the edges of her cloak a little more tightly and moved as close to the fire as the end of the log would allow her.

"If you will permit me," I said, "I will give you a better seat by the fire than that."

She rose without a word, and I rolled the log well within the warmth of the blaze. She resumed her seat, and the firelight flickered and played over her face, tinting her cheeks with deep red and spangling her bronze gold hair with patches of scarlet and crimson. The little red cap had been pulled securely down on her head, and, sitting there in the alternate light and darkness, her figure lithe and strong, she looked like some Saxon wood nymph.

But I did not cease my good deeds. I call myself a thoughtful trooper, and from the saddlebags I carried across my saddle bow I took a cold chicken, a piece of cold boiled ham and some hard biscuits, a dinner fit for a prince, or rather an honest American citizen, which was better, in these hard times of war. To this royal collection I added a canteen well filled with water, remembered the stout little flask in my breast pocket, and the repast was complete, all but the serving.

Her eyes sparkled at the sight of the good things. Wood nymphs, Saxon or other, must eat.

"Let me carve the chicken," she said. "You have neither a table, plates nor a knife," I said.

"This log will serve as a table, some of those clean dry leaves as plates, and you could lend me a knife."

"How could I lend you a knife, a weapon, after all the tricks you have tried to play upon me? You don't forget this, do you?"

I took the little toy pistol with which she had tried to shoot me out of my pocket and held it up before her, but she laughed. Women don't seem to have any conscience, or at least they forget their crimes, which is convenient for their peace of mind.

"Give me the knife," she said, "and don't waste time. I'm hungry."

I distrusted her as much as ever, even more, but I opened the blade of my clasp knife and handed it to her.

"A very good knife," she said, "but I have no doubt it was stolen from an Englishman. Ah, here it is—the name of an English maker on the blade!"

"It was not stolen!" I exclaimed indignantly. "I took it from him fairly at the battle of Monmouth, where he fell into my hands."

"That, I suppose, is a good enough title for a rebel," she said and began to carve the chicken.

It was a fine, fat chicken, beautifully roasted, and she showed that she knew how to carve, for she deftly clipped off a leg, which she held up before me.

"That looks fat and good to eat," she said, "and it's a fine chicken, but I've no doubt it was stolen from a loyal subject of King George."

"It's not true!" I exclaimed in some wrath. "He was a Tory farmer, I admit, but I did not steal the chicken. I took it before his eyes, and he never said a word."

"Afraid, I suppose, but it doesn't make any difference to you. It will taste just as good to a rebel. Here, take your piece on this big, clean leaf and eat."

I took the piece and ate. She carved off a portion for herself, too, and ate with a good appetite. Then I handed her the canteen of water and told her to take a drink.

"Don't be afraid," I said. "I took that water out of a clear brook in the wilderness, and the land through which it flowed belonged to God, not to any Englishman or Tory."

"But how about the canteen?" she asked. "Did you steal that from any English soldier or take it by violence, which is worse?"

I showed her the name of the maker,

a Boston man, upon it.

"A vile rebel town, the worst of them all," she said.

But she took a good drink out of it, and when she handed it back to me I imitated her example. Then, while the fire crackled and blazed higher and the circle of light widened and the darkness beyond it thickened, we ate and drank, and I grew cheerful. I had defeated all her attempts, and tomorrow I would find Morgan and give her into other hands and be rid of all my troubles, yet I was compelled to admit once again that she was very beautiful with the firelight flickering and playing over her face and hair, but all the world knows, as I have said, that the handsome women are the most dangerous, the most cunning, and I was on my guard against any new attempt of hers to escape.

Still, when I looked around at the blackness of the night and heard the sigh of the cold wind above the crackling of the fire, I did not think that she would dare to attempt it. I knew no woman who would venture alone on a winter night into that uncanny wilderness, and, knowing it, I felt easy.

CHAPTER IV.

SUPPER AND SONG.

The horses looked jealously at our supper. I was sorry for them, especially for Old Put, whose great, intelligent eyes said in the purest English, "I, too, am hungry, master." But I could do nothing. I had no provender for horses, and so I told him to wait as best he could until morning and I would find something for him if I had to rob a patriot farmer to do it. He bowed his head in resignation like the wise horse he was, while the brown hack, not so well bred, tugged at his bridle rein and thrashed about until I threatened him with a big stick.

After the chicken the girl served the cold ham and drank from the canteen again. I did likewise. Moreover, I urged her to wet her lips at the flask a second time as a further precaution against cold, which she did literally and no more. I was liberal rather than literal, for I was a soldier and knew its value. I took my blanket from my saddle bow and urged her to wrap it around herself, but she said "No," that her heavy cloak was sufficient, and she would not deprive me even if I was a misguided rebel. I saw that she spoke truly, as her cloak was of the most ample character, and so, having no further compunction, I wrapped the blanket around me, Indian style, and, sitting down on the dry leaves in front of the fire, leaned my head against the log. She sat on the log at the other end, leaning her head against a dead bough which was thrust straight up in the air. I had put the remains of the provisions back in my saddlebags.

"I trust that nobody will forgive me until I ask for forgiveness," I said. She looked at me, her eyes full of rebellion. I thought she was going to raise her hand to strike me, but women are so changeable and uncertain. Instead she held out her hands meekly.

I bound her wrists together and noticed that they were white and well mottled. The handkerchief was soft and could not pain her at all, and, besides, her hands were bound in front of her and not behind her. She need feel no inconvenience, but she must realize that her opportunities for mischief were diminished vastly. Old Put looked at her with an air of triumph, as much as to say, "Now, miss, you are being punished, and punished deservedly, for beating me so much." That seemed to be her own understanding of herself.

We resumed our march, the horses walking behind us. The rim of the sun was now meeting the rim of the earth, and the western skies were tinged with rosy fire. In the east the misty gray of twilight was descending on field and forest, and the chill of night was creeping over everything. Even in our South Carolina latitudes the nights are cold in midwinter, and I shivered as a twilight wind, with a raw edge to it, swept over the plain.

There was a heavy cloak hanging at the saddle horn, for she had not ventured upon her journey unprepared. I took it off and threw it over her shoulders. It fell below her waist like a great coat, and I buttoned it securely around her neck.

"You are a barbarian," she said. "I know it," I replied, "but I do not intend to let you suffer more than is necessary for your own good. That is the kind of barbarians we are in this country."

The country was lone and desolate, for we were on the sterile slopes of the hills. It was thinly peopled at the best of times, but now, raided incessantly by Tarleton's legion, which knew no mercy to anything, whether animate or inanimate, and plundered, too, by wild bands which claimed to belong to either army, as the occasion served, and perhaps belonged to neither, the people had fled to sequestered regions, where one side or the other was master. Only those who have seen it know the sufferings of a country harried by opposing armies and predatory bands. I had hoped to find some friendly farmer bolder than the rest with whom my prisoner and I could find shelter, or if not that, at least some abandoned house which would give us a roof, but I saw no sign of a human face except our own, and no roof appeared either in the fields or among the trees. It was a solitude bleak and cold, and the declining sun, now half way behind the earth, warned me that it would soon be time to stop, for the darkness would be upon us, and in a land of hills, gullies and no roads we could not travel well without light.

Despairing of such shelter as I had expected, I turned our course toward a thick grove of trees rising like a great castle on the left. When we entered it, the shadows already made darkness there, and the night wind moaned among the dry branches of the trees. I saw the girl shiver, and again I felt pity for her in spite of all that she tried to do, though I lost none of my distrust and caution.

Almost in the center of the grove was a small open space, sheltered from the north by cold air by the great trees which grew so thickly around it. It seemed to me to be the likeliest spot we could find for a camp. I hitched the horses to boughs of the trees and took from my pocket a small flask of that cheer which a good soldier seldom neglects. I drew the stopper and handed it to the girl.

"Take a little of this," I said. "You must if you do not expect to catch your death of cold."

"I would if I could," she said, "but I cannot while my hands are tied." "I had forgotten the handkerchief," I replied, "but I don't think we'll need it any longer. You have been warned sufficiently."

I unbound her wrists and replaced the handkerchief in my pocket.

"But don't forget," I said, "that this handkerchief is an evidence that I have put my mark upon you and that you belong to me—that is, you are my prisoner until such time as I choose to give you up."

Her face flushed. "I will not endure such talk," she said, "from a rebel who within six months may be hanged by his outraged king for treason."

NEW TRANSIT LINES.

Pittsburg Projectors Are to Hold A Meeting to Discuss Plans Today.

WORK IS TO BE PUSHED.

Main Line May Be Built From Pittsburg Business District to Wilkinsburg This Year—Lines Incorporated For Philadelphia and Other Places.

Pittsburg, June 10.—The first meeting of the incorporators of the new Pittsburg elevated railways will be held today, and it is probable that the first transit companies will be organized by the election of Thomas S. Bigelow, president, and Richard R. Bigelow, treasurer. The projectors stated yesterday that no decision had been reached as to detailed routes or as to the time when ordinances for street rights will be introduced in Pittsburg councils. It may be decided at today's meeting to introduce the measures at this afternoon's council meeting. The projectors have practically decided to make the Penn avenue route the main stem of their system and to build it to Wilkinsburg this year. The discussion of routes may form one of the most important features of today's meeting. President Bigelow yesterday announced that the companies intended pushing the work forward as far as possible and that the feature of the city sharing in the receipts as its compensation for franchises asked for would be introduced with the ordinances.

Lines Chartered For Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, June 10.—Chief among the lines chartered for the proposed elevated railways are the following: Broad street-subway, capital, $1,250,000. Western Rapid Transit, capital, $350,000. Broad Street Rapid Transit, capital, $150,000. Chestnut Hill and Glenside Rapid Transit, capital, $288,000. Ridge Avenue Elevated, capital, $850,000. Frankford Elevated, capital, $750,000. Northern Rapid Transit, capital, $288,000. Germantown Avenue Elevated, capital, $900,000. Southern Rapid Transit, capital, $300,000. Eastern Rapid Transit, capital, $540,000. Central Rapid Transit, capital, $60,000. Market Street Elevated, capital, $1,500,000.

For Eastern Pennsylvania.

Scranton, Pa., June 10.—Five of the charters granted in Harrisburg under the trolley acts are for companies which propose to operate electric street car lines about Scranton and Wilkesbarre.

Three of the companies will serve Scranton, another will net work Wilkesbarre and have its trunk extending from Avoca to Nanticoke, and another will run from Nanticoke through Kingston and Hudson to Pittston. The Scranton companies will have 70 miles of track, the Wilkesbarre company 54 miles and the Nanticoke-Pittston company 19 miles.

The five companies are capitalized at $800,000. Congressman William Connell is president of all and a director in each. The other directors are Theodore D. Connell and Dr. A. J. Connell, of Scranton; George A. Lee, of Philadelphia, and Senator Benjamin K. Focht, of Lewisburg.

Many of those interested in the new companies are identified with the big trunk line rapid transit road now in process of construction between Carbonate and Wilkesbarre. This latter road is to be 36 miles long, is to run over a private right of way when outside of the four cities it taps, Carbonate, Scranton, Pittston and Wilkesbarre. Iron bridges, rock ballast, double track and 40-ton Pullman cars will be used, and every half hour it will run a car each way at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

Senator Quay, Attorney General Elkin, Congressman Connell, Senator Focht, State Treasurer Barnett and Representative Beacom are among the well-known politicians interested in the trunk lines. A party of Boston and Philadelphia capitalists are interested.

Three of the companies will serve Scranton, another will net work Wilkesbarre and have its trunk extending from Avoca to Nanticoke, and another will run from Nanticoke through Kingston and Hudson to Pittston. The Scranton companies will have 70 miles of track, the Wilkesbarre company 54 miles and the Nanticoke-Pittston company 19 miles.

The five companies are capitalized at $800,000. Congressman William Connell is president of all and a director in each. The other directors are Theodore D. Connell and Dr. A. J. Connell, of Scranton; George A. Lee, of Philadelphia, and Senator Benjamin K. Focht, of Lewisburg.

Many of those interested in the new companies are identified with the big trunk line rapid transit road now in process of construction between Carbonate and Wilkesbarre. This latter road is to be 36 miles long, is to run over a private right of way when outside of the four cities it taps, Carbonate, Scranton, Pittston and Wilkesbarre. Iron bridges, rock ballast, double track and 40-ton Pullman cars will be used, and every half hour it will run a car each way at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

Senator Quay, Attorney General Elkin, Congressman Connell, Senator Focht, State Treasurer Barnett and Representative Beacom are among the well-known politicians interested in the trunk lines. A party of Boston and Philadelphia capitalists are interested.

TAKE LIFE SERIOUSLY.

Rev. Dr. Huntingdon Addresses U. of P. Seniors.

Philadelphia, June 10.—Baccalaureate services of the classes of 1901, University of Pennsylvania, in the Protestant Episcopal church of the Holy Trinity Sunday formally inaugurated the observance of commencement week by that institution. Students from all departments, together with members of the teaching force, faculties, trustees, administrative officers and alumni, assembled in the chapel shortly before 11 o'clock and marched into the edifice, taking seats set apart for them. Other seats were crowded with an unusually large congregation. The Rev. Dr. William Reed Huntingdon, rector of Grace church, New York, preached the anniversary sermon, taking for his text the sayings of St. Paul, where he emphasizes his citizenship in Tarsus, in Rome, and in the heavenly kingdom.

In speaking directly to the graduating classes, Dr. Huntingdon said that one of the greatest needs of the times is more young men who will take themselves seriously.

"Our trouble is," he said, "not that men are taking themselves too seriously, but they are not taking themselves half seriously enough. Let others laugh as they may, take yourselves seriously, young men, and in this serious world play a serious part."

Chicago, June 10.—President Harper, of the University of Chicago, announces that the university has begun to establish affiliated preparatory schools in different parts of Europe. Paris will be invaded first, and the American home school for girls will be opened at 20 Rue de Longchamps on Oct. 15.

The work of the Paris school will be under the immediate charge of Miss Elizabeth Wallace, heretofore instructor of French in the University of Chicago, and of Miss Emma Baird, for many years principal of a girl's school in Kansas City.

Berlin, according to President Harper's plans, is next in the line of march after Paris.

WEST POINT ESCAPADES

Views of Military Officers Concerning the Recent One.

WHAT THEY CHIEFLY CONDEMN.

A Near Approach to Technical Mutiny—The Great Night Disturbance of 1880 Recalled—How a Missing Cadet Was Saved—The Whole Corps Involved and Left Unpunished.

What military officers most condemn in the recent escapade at West Point, which has cost several cadets so dear, is its near approach to technical mutiny, says the New York Post's special Washington correspondent. They reason that from posting the reveille gun in front of the commandant's quarters, with the muzzle aimed straight at his door, to loading and firing it in that direction would have been but a short step, just as imitating a signature for amusement now and then heads a person toward forgery.

The guns at the Point, however, have always played a conspicuous part in the outland revelries of the cadets. One instance is well remembered by officers who have not yet grown very gray and has been recalled by the events of the last few weeks. It was in 1880. Colonel H. M. Lazelle was then commandant of cadets and Captain Edward J. McClernand one of the tactical officers. Those were the days of strict discipline, before baseball and football and other undignified but healthful sports had received the sanction of the authorities and given the youngsters a chance to work off some of their superfluous energy. Both the officers mentioned were pretty keen disciplinarians and as a consequence not over-flowing with popularity in the student circle.

Word had passed down the academy by that freemasonry which eludes all pursuit that the last night of the year was to be celebrated by a somewhat noisy demonstration of the cadets' affection for McClernand, and he, getting wind of it, had asked specially to be made officer in charge for that night. After bedtime he made repeated visits to the barracks, but not a sound was audible anywhere. The cadets seemed to be sleeping the sleep of the just, and every light was out. The chapel clock was striking the midnight hour when a tremendous roar shook the houses at the post. The post commander, the tactical officers and others rusted out of their quarters, fearing that the magazine had been blown up. Investigation showed that the noise came from the field battery guns, all of which had been discharged. The mountains were still faintly echoing the roar when it was followed by a cannonade at Trophy Point, where several of the captured Mexican guns were kept.

McClernand had meanwhile hastened to the barracks, but the first door he tried he found locked. He tried a second and a third, with the same result, and then dispatched an orderly for an ax. Before it could be brought another explosion sounded from the roof of the barracks. This proved to be one of the 600 pound Mexican brass guns which the young mischief makers had dragged early in the evening from Trophy Point, three-eighths of a mile distant, and then up stairs to the roof. The explosions were timed in such order that the gun on the roof should not be discharged till the cadets who had fired the field battery had had a chance to get back to quarters.

Resolved to bring the boys to terms, and that quickly, McClernand organized the other tactical officers into an assaulting party, but as they approached the barracks windows were suddenly opened and hands thrust out, each holding a lighted roman candle, from which balls of fire shot directly at the officers and, of course, caused their retreat. Two or three times the assaulting party charged, only to face the roman candle fire again and be turned back, and in all this time not a cadet had shown his face or any part of his person which would serve to identify him.

At a distance McClernand called for the cadet officers on duty, but not one responded. The assaulting party then broke into separate groups. One of them smashed a door in, and a systematic examination of the building was made. In a small room were found the cadet officers bound, gagged and locked in. All they could say for themselves was that each had been captured separately by two or three men in civilian dress. A search of the rest of the building showed every cadet in bed and every room in perfect order.

The question how the young fellows had contrived to do all this without detection was the subject of a long and exhaustive investigation. It then came out that, as already stated, the Mexican gun on the roof had been taken thither by hand. What an effort this cost may be judged by the fact that it took a company of engineers two days to restore the piece to its place. The powder was obtained by the practice of economy. For six weeks the cadets had been slyly extracting powder from their exercise cartridges and secreting it where it could be gathered up in bulk when necessary. As the outside explosions were at considerable distances apart, the group took off for the first had a hard time getting back to their barracks. The distance to be covered was about a half mile, the snow was more than a foot deep, and sentries and strolling officers had to be avoided. The boys having rooms on the second and third floors climbed up dangling ropes, hand over hand, and got in at the windows. One cadet on one of the firing squads lost his way and fell behind. On getting into bar-acks the leader discovered his absence, but it was observed from a window that the missing boy had come within sight of the building and was hiding in the shadow of a tree. The leader ran down stairs, unbarred the door nearest the hiding cadet and whistled. The cadet made a run for it, his companions sending off a second volley of roman candles to distract the attention of the besiegers. A few of the latter caught sight of the lad as he was darting through the door and started after him, only to have the door slammed in their faces and to hear the bars within slide into place.

In this instance the investigators concluded that the entire cadet corps was involved in the scrape and that to punish a few of them for the sins of all would appear invidious. The matter was therefore dropped. This was perhaps the most serious cadet revolt in the history of the academy.

ZION DOWIE'S ODD ACTIONS.

How He Showed His Faith in Providence at His Tabernacle.

Overseer Jane Dowie, in elaborate gown and lace, yawned slightly and settled back into a comfortable chair at a "Dowie healing" meeting for women only at Zion tabernacle, says a Chicago dispatch to the New York World. "Dr." Dowie stood on the edge of the platform.

"My people," he said, and he smiled as he looked into the suffering faces before him.

Zion's sick were there—the inmates of Zion home—gaspings, emaciated women, brought in on chairs or leaning on the arms of "sisters" and "brothers," cripples, women with cancers, muttering little prayers and crying for faith. Nearly all the sick women in Zion's membership were facing their leader, smiling plaintively.

"I am feeling fine today," cried "Dr." Dowie. "I don't know I have a head.

DR. JOHN A. DOWIE.

You aren't well, down there, are you? I am. Watch and see how well I feel."

Back and forth he pranced on the platform, throwing his feet into the air.

"I have faith in God," he continued, "not faith in doctors. Doctors are not needed when we are born. They are not needed when we live, are they?"

The chorus came in trembling tone, "No, no."

"First we must take up a collection," And the lame and the halt promptly put silver in the box.

He told them of the woman who was healed by touching the hem of Christ's garment.

"Have you faith?" he asked. "Then stand!"

Hundreds arose, but many who tried to do so fell back into their chairs, their crippled limbs refusing to act.

All were ordered to kneel. "You will be prayed over for 20 minutes." At the conclusion of the prayers Dowie asked if all did not feel better. There was a chorus of "Yes" and one low "No." Dowie looked daggers in the direction of the "No" and yelled: "Yes, you are better, but you don't know it. You haven't faith."

Then he withdrew.

RODE BULLBACK OVER GUAM

Governor of the Island Made a Tour Under Difficulties.

Commander Seaton Schroeder, governor of Guam, has been enjoying the novel experience of riding bullback. He made a trip around the island over which he rules, using one of the native bulls for a steed. In a letter received at Washington by Acting Secretary of the Navy Hackett, dated March 27, Governor Schroeder refers to his bullback riding, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. Governor Schroeder says the condition of the island as affected by the hurricane is improving a good deal.

The governor reports having made another journey on bullback about the island to examine roads. The town of Pago was entirely destroyed by the hurricane, and no attempt has been made to rebuild it. A few planters have built cottages on the neighboring heights, but the majority have come to Agaña to settle. The spring rains have begun, and the governor's journey on bullback was attended with great inconvenience and discomfort, but the object was attained of seeing the roads under unfavorable circumstances.

NEW TRANSIT LINES.

WORK IS TO BE PUSHED.

Main Line May Be Built From Pittsburg Business District to Wilkinsburg This Year—Lines Incorporated For Philadelphia and Other Places.

Pittsburg, June 10.—The first meeting of the incorporators of the new Pittsburgh elevated railways will be held today, and it is probable that the rapid transit companies will be organized by the election of Thomas R. Bigelow, president, and Richard R. Bigelow, treasurer. The projectors stated yesterday that no decision had been reached as to detailed routes for the time when ordinances are introduced in street rights will be introduced in the city council. It may be decided at today's meeting to introduce the measures at this afternoon's council meeting. This was considered in the meeting. The projectors probably decided to make the main line route the main stem of their system and to build it to Wilkinsburg this year. The discussion of routes may form one of the most important features of today's meeting.

Lines Chartered For Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, June 10.—Chief among the incorporators of the proposed elevated lines are George C. Gove, Richard R. Bigelow and Thomas R. Bigelow. Fourteen lines for elevated railways in Pittsburg have been incorporated, covering a total of 25 miles, and specifying the following routes:

- 1. Main Avenue Elevated Railway company.
- 2. Chestnut Street Elevated Railway company.
- 3. Allegheny and Pittsburg Elevated Railway company.
- 4. Chestnut and Allegheny Elevated Railway company.

Lines For Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 10.—Charters were issued by the secretary of the commonwealth at Harrisburg, for 13 Philadelphia street railway companies under the terms of the Focht-Emery act.

Capital For These Companies Aggregates $7,375,000.

The proposed roads are thus classified: Elevated, 5; underground, 1; surface, 7.

One hundred and eighty miles of streets will be occupied by surface, 20 miles by underground and about 200 miles, in all.

Select council will meet today to receive ordinances, by the passage of which the charter franchises will be made available. Select council will meet daily until the measures are passed. Common council will meet Thursday to concur with select council in passing the ordinances.

City Councils have the power to compel the Union Traction company to remove the overhead trolley system on a major portion of its lines, thereby subjecting the company to a tremendous expense.

The Union Traction company, aware of the plans of the incorporators of the new lines, has already introduced in select council, for tactical reasons, an ordinance intended to prevent any of the new lines from crossing any of the bridges across the Schuylkill river.

The charters issued by the state department at Harrisburg are as follows:

- Passyunk Avenue Elevated, capital stock, $350,000.
- Broad Street Subway, capital, $1,250,000.
- Western Rapid Transit, capital, $350,000.
- Broad Street Rapid Transit, capital, $150,000.
- Chestnut Hill and Glenside Rapid Transit, capital, $288,000.
- Ridge Avenue Elevated, capital, $850,000.
- Frankford Elevated, capital, $750,000.
- Northern Rapid Transit, capital, $288,000.
- Germantown Avenue Elevated, capital, $900,000.
- Southern Rapid Transit, capital, $90,000.
- Eastern Rapid Transit, capital, $540,000.
- Central Rapid Transit, capital, $60,000.
- Market Street Elevated, capital, $1,500,000.

For Eastern Pennsylvania.

Scranton, Pa., June 10.—Five of the charters granted in Harrisburg under the trolley acts are for companies which propose to operate electric street car lines about Scranton and Wilkesbarre.

Three of the companies will serve Scranton, another will net work Wilkesbarre and have its trunk extending from Avoca to Nanticoke, and another will run from Nanticoke through Kingston and Hudson to Pittston. The Scranton companies will have 70 miles of track, the Wilkesbarre company 54 miles and the Nanticoke-Pittston company 19 miles.

The five companies are capitalized at $800,000. Congressman William Connell is president of all and a director in each. The other directors are Theodore D. Connell and Dr. A. J. Connell, of Scranton; George A. Lee, of Philadelphia, and Senator Benjamin K. Focht, of Lewisburg.

Many of those interested in the new companies are identified with the big trunk line rapid transit road now in process of construction between Carbondale and Wilkesbarre. This latter road is to be 36 miles long, is to run over a private right of way when outside of the four cities it taps, Carbondale, Scranton, Pittston and Wilkesbarre. Iron bridges, rock ballast, double track and 40-ton Pullman cars will be used, and every half hour it will run a car each way at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

Senator Quay, Attorney General Elkin, Congressman Connell, Senator Focht, State Treasurer Barnett and Representative Beacom are among the well-known politicians interested in the trunk lines. A party of Boston and Philadelphia capitalists are interested.

McClernand had meanwhile hastened to the barracks, but the first door he tried he found locked. He tried a second and a third, with the same result, and then dispatched an orderly for an ax. Before it could be brought another explosion sounded from the roof of the barracks. This proved to be one of the 600 pound Mexican brass guns which the young mischief makers had dragged early in the evening from Trophy Point, three-eighths of a mile distant, and then up stairs to the roof. The explosions were timed in such order that the gun on the roof should not be discharged till the cadets who had fired the field battery had had a chance to get back to quarters.

Resolved to bring the boys to terms, and that quickly, McClernand organized the other tactical officers into an assaulting party, but as they approached the barracks windows were suddenly opened and hands thrust out, each holding a lighted roman candle, from which balls of fire shot directly at the officers and, of course, caused their retreat. Two or three times the assaulting party charged, only to face the roman candle fire again and be turned back, and in all this time not a cadet had shown his face or any part of his person which would serve to identify him.

At a distance McClernand called for the cadet officers on duty, but not one responded. The assaulting party then broke into separate groups. One of them smashed a door in, and a systematic examination of the building was made. In a small room were found the cadet officers bound, gagged and locked in. All they could say for themselves was that each had been captured separately by two or three men in civilian dress. A search of the rest of the building showed every cadet in bed and every room in perfect order.

The question how the young fellows had contrived to do all this without detection was the subject of a long and exhaustive investigation. It then came out that, as already stated, the Mexican gun on the roof had been taken thither by hand. What an effort this cost may be judged by the fact that it took a company of engineers two days to restore the piece to its place. The powder was obtained by the practice of economy. For six weeks the cadets had been slyly extracting powder from their exercise cartridges and secreting it where it could be gathered up in bulk when necessary. As the outside explosions were at considerable distances apart, the group took off for the first had a hard time getting back to their barracks. The distance to be covered was about a half mile, the snow was more than a foot deep, and sentries and strolling officers had to be avoided. The boys having rooms on the second and third floors climbed up dangling ropes, hand over hand, and got in at the windows. One cadet on one of the firing squads lost his way and fell behind. On getting into barracks the leader discovered his absence, but it was observed from a window that the missing boy had come within sight of the building and was hiding in the shadow of a tree. The leader ran down stairs, unbarred the door nearest the hiding cadet and whistled. The cadet made a run for it, his companions sending off a second volley of roman candles to distract the attention of the besiegers. A few of the latter caught sight of the lad as he was darting through the door and started after him, only to have the door slammed in their faces and to hear the bars within slide into place.

In this instance the investigators concluded that the entire cadet corps was involved in the scrape and that to punish a few of them for the sins of all would appear inequitable. The matter was therefore dropped. This was perhaps the most serious cadet revolt in the history of the academy.

ZION DOWIE'S ODD ACTIONS.

How He Showed His Faith In Providence at His Tabernacle.

Overseer Jane Dowie, in elaborate gown and lace, yawned slightly and settled back into a comfortable chair at a "Dowie healing" meeting for women only at Zion tabernacle, says a Chicago dispatch to the New York World. "Dr." Dowie stood on the edge of the platform.

"My people," he said, and he smiled as he looked into the suffering faces before him.

Zion's sick were there—the inmates of Zion home—gaspings, emaciated women, brought in on chairs or leaning on the arms of "sisters" and "brothers," cripples, women with cancers, muttering little prayers and crying for faith. Nearly all the sick women in Zion's membership were facing their leader, smiling plaintively.

"I am feeling fine today," cried "Dr." Dowie. "I don't know I have a head."

RODE BULLBACK OVER GUAM

Governor of the Island Made a Tour Under Difficulties.

Commander Seaton Schroeder, governor of Guam, has been enjoying the novel experience of riding bullback. He made a trip around the island over which he rules, using one of the native bulls for a steed. In a letter received at Washington by Acting Secretary of the Navy Hackett, dated March 27, Governor Schroeder refers to his bullback riding, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. Governor Schroeder says the condition of the island as affected by the hurricane is improving a good deal.

The governor reports having made another journey on bullback about the island to examine roads. The town of Pago was entirely destroyed by the hurricane, and no attempt has been made to rebuild it. A few planters have built cottages on the neighboring heights, but the majority have come to Agaña to settle. The spring rains have begun, and the governor's journey on bullback was attended with great inconvenience and discomfort, but the object was attained of seeing the roads under unfavorable circumstances.

Prompt Justice.

In the "History of Beverly," Mass., the following anecdote is related of a good justice of the peace in the old colonial times. On a cold night in winter a traveler called at his house for lodging. The ready hospitality of the justice was about being displayed, when the traveler unluckily uttered a word which his host considered profane.

Upon this he informed his guest that he was a magistrate, pointed out the nature of the offense and explained the necessity of its being expiated by sitting an hour in the stocks.

Remonstrance was unavailing, for custom at that time allowed the magistrate to convict and punish at once, and in this case he acted as accuser, witness, jury, judge and sheriff, all in one.

Cold as it was our worthy justice, aided by his son, conducted the traveler to the place of punishment, an open place near the meeting house where the stocks were placed. Here the traveler was confined in the usual manner, the benevolent executor of the law remaining with him to beguile the time of its tedium by edifying conversation.

At the expiration of the hour he was reconducted to the house and hospitably entertained till the next morning, when the traveler departed with, let us hope, a determination to consider his words more carefully before giving them utterance in the hearing of a conscientious magistrate.

You can expect a shower at Panama about 3 o'clock every afternoon during the rainy season.

FOUR ARRESTS

Saturday and Sunday Nights Production of a Fairly Good Haul.

LIQUOR WAS RESPONSIBLE

For Each of the Arrests And All Victims Were Assessed Fines—Two Were Charged With Disorder In Addition to Drunkenness.

Saturday and Sunday nights were productive of four cases in police court. All day Sunday there was not the least disturbance of any nature, and it was not until the shades of darkness appeared that the officers had occasion to assert their authority.

Two culprits were picked up Saturday night. Sam Lichtenstein was found at a late hour by Policeman Aufdeheide in the alley at Armour's meat house, near the C. & P. depot. He was fast asleep and reposing on the paving brick. The officer had some difficulty in getting his prisoner to the bastille, and this morning Lichtenstein was fined $5 and costs. He did not have the necessary cash, and is yet behind the bars.

Ed Mosby used poor judgment in the satiation of his appetite and overdid the thing. As a result he fell into the clutches of Officers Thompson and Dawson. When he appeared before the mayor a charge of drunkenness awaited his consideration. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $1 and costs.

Charles Shepard fell into the law's meshes because of his over-indulgence in strong drink. Officer Stafford colared the victim and put him in the Hotel de Davidson. He became obstreperous when the officer took hold of him and was locked up with difficulty. His honor imposed a fine of $3 and costs on Shepard, and because of his inability to pay he still lingers in durance vile.

Mike Dalton, who claims Pittsburg as his home, was arrested by Officer Davidson for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. When he was searched at the city jail $20 was found in his pockets. The mayor relieved him of $7.60 and allowed him to take his departure.

Officers Aufdeheide and Stafford arrested W. R. Meanough on Smoky this afternoon, and took him to jail in the patrol. Meanough hails from Wells-ville, and when captured was very drunk. He will be given a hearing this evening.

Such Stuff as Dreams Are Made Of.

The materials of dreams may be enumerated as memories of waking sensations, memories of waking thoughts and new sensations received in sleep, whether from without or within. Dr. Gregory mentions of himself that having on one occasion gone to bed with a bottle of hot water at his feet he dreamed of walking up the crater of Mount Etna and feeling the ground warm under him. He had at an early period of his life visited Mount Vesuvius and actually felt a strong sensation of warmth in his feet when walking up the side of the crater, and he had more recently read Brydson's description of Mount Etna.

On another occasion, having thrown off the bedclothes in his sleep, he dreamed of spending a winter at Hudson's bay and of suffering distress from the intense frost. He had been reading a few days before a very particular account of the state of the colonies during winter.—Cassell's Magazine.

Cold as it was our worthy justice, aided by his son, conducted the traveler to the place of punishment, an open place near the meeting house where the stocks were placed. Here the traveler was confined in the usual manner, the benevolent executor of the law remaining with him to beguile the time of its tedium by edifying conversation.

At the expiration of the hour he was reconducted to the house and hospitably entertained till the next morning, when the traveler departed with, let us hope, a determination to consider his words more carefully before giving them utterance in the hearing of a conscientious magistrate.

FOUR ARRESTS

LIQUOR WAS RESPONSIBLE

For Each of the Arrests And All Victims Were Assessed Fines—Two Were Charged With Disorder In Addition to Drunkenness.

Saturday and Sunday nights were productive of four cases in police court. All day Sunday there was not the least disturbance of any nature, and it was not until the shades of darkness appeared that the officers had occasion to assert their authority.

Two culprits were picked up Saturday night. Sam Lichtenstein was found at a late hour by Policeman Aufdeheide in the alley at Armour's meat house, near the C. & P. depot. He was fast asleep and reposing on the paving brick. The officer had some difficulty in getting his prisoner to the bastille, and this morning Lichtenstein was fined $5 and costs. He did not have the necessary cash, and is yet behind the bars.

Ed Mosby used poor judgment in the satiation of his appetite and overdid the thing. As a result he fell into the clutches of Officers Thompson and Dawson. When he appeared before the mayor a charge of drunkenness awaited his consideration. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $1 and costs.

Charles Shepard fell into the law's meshes because of his over-indulgence in strong drink. Officer Stafford collared the victim and put him in the Hotel de Davidson. He became obstreperous when the officer took hold of him and was locked up with difficulty. His honor imposed a fine of $3 and costs on Shepard, and because of his inability to pay he still lingers in durance vile.

Mike Dalton, who claims Pittsburg as his home, was arrested by Officer Davidson for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. When he was searched at the city jail $20 was found in his pockets. The mayor relieved him of $7.60 and allowed him to take his departure.

Officers Aufdeheide and Stafford arrested W. R. Meannough on Smoky this afternoon, and took him to jail in the patrol. Meannough hails from Wells-ville, and when captured was very drunk. He will be given a hearing this evening.

Such Stuff as Dreams Are Made Of.

The materials of dreams may be enumerated as memories of waking sensations, memories of waking thoughts and new sensations received in sleep, whether from without or within. Dr. Gregory mentions of himself that having on one occasion gone to bed with a bottle of hot water at his feet he dreamed of walking up the crater of Mount Etna and feeling the ground warm under him. He had at an early period of his life visited Mount Vesuvius and actually felt a strong sensation of warmth in his feet when walking up the side of the crater, and he had more recently read Brydone's description of Mount Etna.

On another occasion, having thrown off the bedclothes in his sleep, he dreamed of spending a winter at Hudson's bay and of suffering distress from the intense frost. He had been reading a few days before a very particular account of the state of the colonies during winter.—Cassell's Magazine.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Closes an Interesting Session at Martin's Ferry—Officers Elected.

At the Epworth League convention which closed at Martin's Ferry Friday evening, the following officers for the Steubenville district were chosen: President, Rev. S. B. Salmon, of Smithfield; vice presidents, Miss Alma Roberts, Wintersville; Letitia Brown, Wellsville; Mand Runyon, Empire; I. E. Miller, Hopedale; secretary, Miss Nannie Bigger, Smithfield; treasurer, Graham Porter, Toronto; superintendent, Mrs. J. B. Elliott, Toronto; executive committee, Dr. O. W. Holmes, Steubenville; James Gruber, Albert Dennis, Portland.

About 280 delegates were present. The president reported that there were now 2,100 chapters of the Epworth League in the United States, with a total membership of more than 2,000,000.

The East Ohio conference has 600 chapters and the Steubenville district 60 chapters. Arthur Savage and Mrs. George Messenger, of East Liverpool, both read excellent papers, and Rev. G. W. Orcutt, of the Second M. E. church, delivered an able address.

The convention was one of the most interesting and successful meetings ever held in this district.

TO TRIBE OF BEN HUR

Rev. C. G. Jordan Delivered an Impressive Address Last Evening.

The auditorium of the First Presbyterian church was packed last night to hear Rev. C. G. Jordan deliver an address to the Tribe of Ben Hur of this city.

The pastor took his text from the second chapter of Matthew and first few verses. His illustrations were taken from the book of Ben Hur, by General Lew Wallace. He spoke of how the Egyptians preserved the bodies of their dead in order that their memories might be ever with the living. He then spoke of the custom of building monuments to the memory of the dead, and then said the lodge of Ben Hur had adopted a custom of keeping the memory of others and said it should always be kept up. The meeting of the three disciples in the desert was graphically described. The pastor dwelt for some length upon the fact that all orders must be founded upon the principles of brotherly love in order to live, and that all men need the help of their fellow-men.

LAUNDRY GIRLS QUIT

SIXTEEN AT THE WOODBINE HAVE A GRIEVANCE.

Wanted Two Companions Who Were Laid Off Reinstated—The Firm's Position.

A strike of the girls employed at the Woodbine laundry is in progress. Sixteen girls have quit. The firm's statement of the trouble is that two girls were laid off temporarily, owing to work being slack. The others said they wanted these two reinstated and quit without notice, sending a committee to say that they would remain out until the girls who had been laid off were reinstated. The firm takes the ground that it cannot reinstate employees who have not been discharged and is paying no attention to the notice.

Mr. J. R. Hill said this morning that the laundry was receiving and sending out work as usual and would not be seriously inconvenienced by the strike.

The employees of the Woodbine take the stand that there was no necessity for the laying off of the members of the union, as they were busier last week than for months.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon and it was unanimously decided to demand the reinstatement of the two girls or refuse to go to work this morning. A committee was appointed to confer with Mr. Hill this morning, but he refused to see them.

CHILDREN'S DAY WELL OBSERVED

Impressive Services Held in the Various Churches of the City.

THE ATTENDANCE LARGE

The Little Ones Acquitted Themselves With Great Credit—Fine Decorations—Interesting Programs, Both Musical And Literary, Carried Out.

Children's day was generally observed by the churches of the city. The exercises were beautiful and appropriate and all drew out a large attendance.

The exercises at the First M. E. church were attended both morning and evening by unusually large congregations. The program was interesting throughout and well rendered. The subject of the program was "The Gates of the Century, and on the pulpit was built a large folding gate, surrounded by potted flowers. The interior of the church was finely decorated and nothing was spared to make the occasion enjoyable to all present.

Twenty children were baptized, and two persons were enrolled on probation and another taken into the church by letter. The collection taken for the educational fund, at Gardendale and at the First church, amounted to $50.

The attendance at the children's day exercises at the Presbyterian church last night was very large. The church was superbly decorated and a large banner with the motto, "Children for Christ," placed in position by the young ladies' class, was very beautiful.

The exercises were opened with a prayer by the pastor, after which the following program was rendered:

Music, responsive reading, by the school; music by the primary school, which also recited the twenty-third Psalm; song by Miss Vena Harrison; baptism of infants, Rev. Jordan; selections by several of the children and a short address by Rev. C. G. Jordan.

A large attendance was present at the Christian church also. The subject of the entertainment was "The Better Day." The following program was rendered:

Song, "The Better Day;" scripture reading, F. T. Weaver; prayer, Rev. J. W. Gorrell; song, "Just a Little Sunshine;" recitation, "The Glad New Time," Joseph Robinson; "Welcome to the Flowers;" flower salute and the Rose class greeting chorus; "Message of the Flowers," dialogue by 12 girls; "O Chain of Love," choir; recitation, "Rouse, O Church of the Anointed," Stella Gorrell; "Bring Your Loving Gifts to Jesus;" duet, Misses Minnie and Ida Liston; recitation, "Is It Nothing to You, Jesus Lives?" chorus, "The Missionary Meeting;" dialogue, "Brothers And Sisters Across the Sea;" chorus, "Look on the Fields;" recitation, Lucille Gorrell; quartet, "Some Glad Sweet Day," Ed Beardmore, Edgar Eagan, Thomas Proctor and C. R. Reese; "Count Your Blessing," school; taking of offering; benediction by Samuel Johnson.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

J. G. McCoy's illustrated lecture, "The Effects of Cigarettes Upon the Growing Boy," to the Boys' band of the Y. M. C. A., was well attended. His talk was very practical, the illustrations serving to force the truths upon the boys' minds. At the close of the meeting seven of the little fellows confessed Christ and expressed a desire to unite with the church of their choice.

The members and friends of the base ball team will meet in the parlor at 8 p. m. Thursday evening, June 13, to arrange for a strawberry social to be given by the boys. Proceeds to purchase uniforms.

Coming Services.

"The Ideal Young Woman" will be the subject of Rev. C. G. Jordan's sermon at the First Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. On the Sunday following he will speak on "The Ideal Young Man." Rev. Mr. Snyder, of Calcutta, will preach in the Presbyterian church here next Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Communion services will be held next Sunday.

Goes to a Sanitarium—Mr. and Mrs. J. Stein left this afternoon for Battle Creek, Mich., where Mrs. Stein will enter the sanitarium.

IN MEMORY OF A DEAD BROTHER

CHAS. G. STEVENS THE MAN

To Whom Honor Was Paid By His Brethren in the Order—Five Hundred Witnessed the Services at Spring Grove Cemetery.

The Woodmen of the World unveiled the monument of Charles G. Stevens, the first deceased member of the Pottery City Camp, at Spring Grove cemetery yesterday afternoon before an audience of about 500 people. The exercises were most impressive and appropriate, illustrating the principles of the order.

Manley's band lead the local camp as they marched four abreast to and from the cemetery. The members left Odd Fellows' hall promptly at 2 o'clock and returned at 4, the march to the cemetery and return and the services having lasted just two hours.

Dr. George D. Arnum acted as master of ceremonies and H. L. Snyder as captain of the camp.

Rev. George C. Schleh, of Omaha, Neb., who was to have delivered the oration, was unable to reach here in time, and State Deputy M. D. Roche, of Cleveland, spoke in his stead.

The services at the grave were opened by the band who played "Nearer, My God to Thee." This was followed by the reading of the ritual by the master of ceremonies, at the close of which he directed the captain to "remove the veil and let God's sunlight shine on this tribute to our deceased sovereign."

The three chief officers of the local camp then stepped forward to the monument, in turn, and striking the stone three light taps with a tool of the Woodmen, pronounced the words "Love, Honor and Remembrance," and dedicated the monument to "Charles G. Stevens, our deceased brother and sovereign."

This was followed by the oration of the state deputy, which dealt chiefly with the principles of the order, calling attention to the fact that the Woodmen were the only fraternal organization in the world which erected monuments to the memory of their deceased members, in addition to paying sick benefits and insurance at death. At the close of the address he called attention to the fact that the Woodmen unveiled monuments in different parts of the country every Sunday, similar services being conducted yesterday at Beaver Falls and Toronto.

This concluded the services, which lasted about 30 minutes, and the order marched back in the order in which they came, arriving at their hall at about 4 o'clock. The band played several selections of appropriate music on the return march.

At Toronto yesterday Francy camp, No. 82, of the Woodmen of the World, unveiled a monument to James A. McFarland. The exercises at the cemetery were preceded by a parade of the members of the order, Brotherhood of Operative potters and the Toronto fire department, all of which the deceased was a member. Rev. F. P. Hummel, pastor of the M. P. church, delivered the oration.

BRUTAL FIGHT

A fight took place last Saturday night in which several Wellsville and East Liverpool men took part. The encounter occurred on Franklin street, near the Horn switch, and is said to have been a brutal affair. One of the Wellsville men was knocked down, and as he lay helpless, was kicked several times in the stomach. The fighters were all more or less hurt, but succeeded in making their escape before the officers could arrest them.

The plan to enter Alliance over the local street railway track will necessitate a practical rebuilding of the entire road, as the rails are not heavy enough to support the heavy interurban cars with which the new road will be equipped.

MADE UNCONSCIOUS

A BASE BALL PLAYER BADLY HURT IN A GAME.

William Garvey Met With a Serious Mishap on Saturday.

The kilnhands of K., T. & K. and the Buckeye base ball teams played a game at Columbian park Saturday afternoon, and it was won by the kilnhands by a score of 5 to 1.

William Garvey, who resides in the West End, met with an accident during the game. He was on first base and started to second. He was pressed closely and was in the act of starting to slide to the base when he struck his foot on a peg and was thrown violently to the ground. He was rendered unconscious, remaining so for 30 minutes, and when a physician was summoned it was discovered he had knocked the knee cap off his right leg. His injuries were dressed and he was assisted to his home, and although the member is very sore today he is able to be around with the aid of a cane.

CHANGES ARE CONTEMPLATED

Whereby Salineville Is Likely to Lose 200 of Its Mining Population.

DEAL AN IMPORTANT ONE

But the Money Consideration Is Not Known—Entry at the Big Vein Shaft Will Probably Be Done Away With And Another One Made.

Salineville, June 10.—(Special.)—The fact was made known here today that a deal has been closed, whereby the Cedar Hill Coal company has disposed of its mine located along the C. & P. railroad, two miles south of this city, to the Big Vein Coal company, of Cleveland. The pecuniary consideration is not known, but the deal is the most important made here in years.

It is said that the transaction will result in the abandonment of the Big Vein mine and that the coal from it will be taken out through the entry of the Cedar Hill mine. A passage will be cut through which will connect the two, thus doing entirely away with the entry of the Big Vein shaft.

When this change takes effect it will mean the loss of at least 200 of Salineville's population, as the miners employed at the Big Vein mine will have to move to a locality in the vicinity of their work.

EAST END

CHILDRENS' DAY

Observed With Impressive Exercises at Both East End Churches.

The children's day exercises at the Second Presbyterian church and the Second M. E. church last evening were attended by unusually large audiences, both churches being obliged to turn people away from their doors. This has frequently been the case at entertainments of this kind, and a number of the members of each congregation are considering the advisability of starting a subscription paper for the purpose of erecting the much-needed church edifices.

The work of the children at each church last evening was excellent. The programs consisted of about the usual number of class exercises, speeches and songs and they were rendered in a manner that held the undivided attention of the audiences throughout. The class singing was particularly fine. The teachers deserve praise for their careful work of training.

Mrs. Henry Chambers Was Treated By "Bonesetter" Reese, of Youngstown.

Mrs. Henry Chambers has returned from Youngstown, after a treatment of three days under "Bonesetter" Reese. More than a year ago she received a fall which slightly dislocated one of the hip bones and she has been unable to walk since that time.

Owing to the fact that she was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism and other ailments it was thought that it would be impossible to reset the injured member. The noted specialist succeeded in performing the operation successfully and when Mrs. Chambers returned Saturday evening she was able to walk from the platform by means of her crutches without assistance from any person. She expects to be able to walk without crutches in a very short time.

EQUALIZERS AT WORK

The Board is Looking After East End Property Just at Present.

The board of equalization is at work in the East End today. Their work here is chiefly on new houses, there being 83 new residences to examine. This work will occupy most of their time, although there are a number of property owners who would be glad to have old properties revalued and the valuation reduced. The work in the East End will require the attention of the board for several days.

SIX SKIRMISHES OCCURRED.

They Were Fought by Lieut. Wray's Men in Philippines—Six Insurgents Killed.

Manila, June 10.—The Philippine commission returned to Manila from the province of Nueva Ecija, Luzon, having organized a provincial government at San Isidro, capital of the province, with Captain Jacob F. Kreps, of the Twenty-second infantry, as governor; Lieutenant Richard C. Day, of the Thirty-fourth volunteer infantry, as treasurer, and Lieutenant De Witt C. Lyles, of the same regiment, as supervisor.

Judge Taft told the people that, if no power were given to levy customs, the expenses of the central government would be provided by additional internal taxes. He pointed out also that if the decision of the authorities at Washington should result in free trade with the United States, opening up such a great market, the increase in land values would enable the people to respond to the increased internal taxes.

Lieutenant Wray's command had six engagements with the insurgents in the province of Sorsogon, Luzon, killing six. Twenty-three insurgents were captured at and near Atimonan, province of Tayabas, and several minor are reported from other parts of Southern Luzon, where the insurgents are still active.

The report circulated in the United States that General Cailles had surrendered was undoubtedly.

PROPOSES ARBITRATION.

America Suggested That Powers Submit Chinese Indemnity Tangle to Hague Tribunal.

Washington, June 10.—The United States government issued an appeal to the powers to submit the present issues at Pekin over the indemnity propositions to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal.

Mr. Rockhill, who has been watching for an opportunity, cabled Secretary Hay for permission to make a proposition, and the secretary cabled him authority to do so.

It is believed that the ministers at Pekin have become involved beyond extrication in the present issues, and this proposition may be the only way out.

TO RETURN TO PEKIN.

Chinese Pleased at Prospect of Court Going Back.

Pekin, June 10.—The Chinese express great satisfaction at the announcement of the intention of the court to return to Pekin in September. All the foreign troops, with the exception of the legation guards, are expected to withdraw ere the middle of that month, the only troops not already under orders of withdrawal being the Japanese, whose government is sending reliefs. It is said, however, at the Japanese legation that when Japan is absolutely certain the other powers are evacuating his own troops can be withdrawn on two days' notice.

General Voyron, the French commander, has instructions to leave one brigade for service in China, and the French transports are en route. The British will have completed their departure by the end of September, 10 transports making two journeys to India.

WELLSVILLE

Rev. Dr. Edward Thompson Addresses Large Congregations on This Theme.

The union meeting in the Methodist Episcopal church at 3 p. m. yesterday afternoon was well attended. Rev. Dr. Edward Thompson took for his text Phil. 2:4, "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." His theme was, "Is it possible to keep the Sabbath holy in this busy century?" He proved by numerous examples that it was not only possible but profitable to obey the scriptural command, and showed how the greatest men in the country had risen in the respect of all by doing so. He said the Sabbath was the foundation of American liberty. Ohio has been made great by her Sabbath observers, not by "sapheads" who go around playing ball on Sunday.

Dr. Thompson preached to a crowded house yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian church, describing the work of the Sunday league.

The committee from the several churches which will take charge of the Sunday American league work are as follows:

Methodist Episcopal—Dr. E. D. Holtz, John Davis, A. B. Stubbins, Mrs. A. R. Wells.

Second Presbyterian—Rev. C. L. V. McKee, J. M. Russell.

United Presbyterian—J. T. Junkin, Miss Margaret Fraser, H. B. Andrews, Evangelical—Mrs. Martha Hunter.

Methodist—I. Secret, John Robinson, Mrs. James Leighton.

Christian—M. Glaser.

Children's Day Services.

Children's day was observed in the First Presbyterian, Christian and Methodist Protestant churches last night. The program at the First Presbyterian church was as follows: Overture, orchestra; quartet, "Keep on the Sunny Side of the Cross"; song, "God Is Love"; prayer, Rev. L. F. Laverty; scripture reading, Psalm xcv; song, "Safe in Jehovah's Keeping"; exercises by primary department; song, "Praise the Lord"; pastor's address; benediction.

A Sunday Outing.

The Misses Conn, Wilcoxen, Pollen, Rue, Kelly, Wolley and Mr. John McKee took their dinners to Altamont park in Steubenville yesterday for a day's outing. The members of the party are all clerks in Downing's. They went down on the morning train and returned in the evening.

Four Arrested.

Four arrests were made by the police Saturday and Sunday nights. Harry Dunlap, Michael Mahoen, M. Houfman and an Italian named Dominick were the victims and all were fined.

SALEM MAN TOO SLOW

A Westerner Two Days Ahead of Him In Getting a Patent.

Salem, June 10.—L. H. Bowman, a famous inventor of Walla Walla, Wash., is in the city, coming from Chicago. He has with him a model of his latest patent, a patent car ventilator. Railroad men all over the country consider it a great invention. Mr. Bowman was granted a patent Jan. 1, 1901.

For the past two years Thomas M. Van Der Veer, claims agent of the Pennsylvania company, of this city, has been working on a similar invention. He arrived in Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, this year, to secure a patent, but to his dismay found Mr. Bowman had preceded him two days and beat him out. Since receiving his patent Mr. Bowman has received thousands of letters, but out of that number, he only answered one, and that was sent by Mr. Van Der Veer. Mr. Bowman stopped off in this city on his way to see Mr. Van Der Veer.

AN UNEQUALED RECORD

There is a Rapidly Increasing Volume of East Liverpool Evidence Rolling Up For the Great Medicine, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills

It would seem that hardly anyone can take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet who are in a weak, run down condition is the talk of every place they are known. It is only a short time since they first came to East Liverpool, yet today they are more in evidence for merit with East Liverpool people than all other medicines combined.

Mr. B. L. Updegraff, of 169 Fifth street, East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "As a general and nerve tonic I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkin's drug store, cor. Sixth and East Market streets. I was at the time feeling run down and nervous, not up to the mark in health, and needed a tonic. The medicine did its work nicely, and I regained tone, strength and energy again."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

DAILY SUICIDES.

Pittsburg Physician Shot Himself At His Home.

WIFE'S DEATH WAS A BLOW.

Seemed a Changed Man After Her Demise—Physician Said He Believed He Was Suffering From Mental Aberration.

Pittsburg, June 10.—Dr. William H. committed suicide at his home,
11 Howe street.

It was noticeable that his wife's death effected him. She died Nov. 22,

Dr. W. S. Foster said he believed committed the deed while under mental aberration.

Dr. Daly shot himself above the right temple.

Washington, June 10.—Lieutenant General Miles said last night that he was not surprised at the suicide of Dr. Daly, in view of the great personal grief recently, and the undermining of his health by a severe attack of grip last winter. General Miles seemed Dr. Daly very highly and the two were intimate friends. His death came as a severe blow to the general.

Dr. Daly was in the city last March, when he came to be present at the second inauguration of President Mc-Clellan. If General Miles can arrange matters he will attend the funeral of his old friend. Surgeon Daly was a deputy to Assistant Surgeon Charles Greenleaf, on the staff of the commanding general during the Spanish-American war, and General Miles testified last night to the thoroughness with which he performed his duties attending to the wants of the sick, caring for the wounded and establishing hospitals. It was through Dr.
Daly's allegations that the beef fur-mishers to the army had been tampered with and preserved by means of acids, which he alleged were detrimental to the health of the soldiers that a board of army inquiries conducted the celebrated beef inquiry during the Spanish war.

FIVE MEN WERE KILLED.

Seven Also Injured In the Wreck and Explosion on the Lackawanna.

Elmhurst, N. Y., June 10.—Five men were killed and seven injured in a wreck at Vestal. The dead:

John P. Kelly, head brakeman of train No. 61.

S. R. Polhamus, conductor of train
No. 61.

Elmer Polhamus, trainman of train
No. 61.

John Conner, fireman first engine of the wildcat freight.

Fred Witherey, fireman second engine of wildcat freight.

Seven others, all but two of them
trainmen, were injured.

Several of those who were thought to be fatally hurt recovered from the wreck and figure in the list of slightly hurt. Portions of the last mangled body to be accounted for were discovered about a quarter of a mile from where the explosion occurred, while the tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad were completely blocked until last past midday. Both trains were completely wrecked and the engines of the wildcat freight, which ran into the rear of train No. 61, which was taking water at the time and which carried the fatal car of dynamite,
were reduced to scrap iron, pieces of
which have been picked up at a distance of half a mile away.

Aside from the damage to railroad
property much minor damage is reported. Nearly every house in the villages of Vestal and Union, which is across the Susquehanna from the wreck, lost more or less of its window
glass, while farmers' houses and barns
near the scene were badly shattered.
None of inmates, however, was injured.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

Large Crowd Expected at the National Meeting in Cincinnati Next Month.

Cincinnati, June 10.—Elaborate arrangements have been made for the twentieth international convention of the Christian Endeavor here, July 6
to 10. As many were unable to attend the convention in London last
year, a larger attendance than usual
is expected, especially since these conventions heretofore will be held only once in two years. The choir
of 1,500 trained voices will be a feature of music hall. Other large choruses have been trained for the exposition and other halls, while all
the churches and their choirs have
been engaged for the occasion.

Bands will discourse sacred music in Washington park, adjoining Music
hall, for the open-air meetings. Governor Nash, Mayor Fleischmann and local committeemen will deliver welcoming addresses Saturday afternoon.

July 6, President Clark will deliver
his annual address and Secretary
Baer will make his annual report Saturday evening. On Sunday morning
there will be special addresses on
"Twenty Years of Christian Endeavor." In the afternoon temperance rallies and in the evening meetings for Sabbath observance. The regular program will be meetings by sections on the four following days.

PULLMAN PENSION PLAN

Sleeping Car Company to Care
For Its Aged Employees.

VIEWED AS CO-OPERATIVE SCHEME

New System Will Embrace From 12,-
000 to 15,000 Office Men, Shop
Hands and Colored Porters—Managing Board to Be Made Up From
Officers of the Company.

Officials of the Pullman company are
arranging the details for a pension department which will be established as soon as the plan is completed and approved by the directory, says the Chicago Record-Herald. It is said to be
the purpose of the company to place in effect a system which will be comprehensive and liberal to a degree and
which will embrace the total force of
the company, numbering between 12,- 000 and 15,000 employees.

The fact that the Pullman force embraces in the neighborhood of 7,000
colored men, acting as porters on sleeping cars throughout the country, adds
interest to the project. It is not known
when the matter will be submitted to
the directory, but it will probably be before the quarterly meeting in August. There is no doubt, however, that the members of the directory are in favor of a pension plan, and it is said
that the suggestion to inaugurate one
came from that body.

The preliminary work has not progressed very far. The auditor has been instructed to gather data regarding the number of men employed in the departments, the proper classification of the service and the number of years each employee has been in the service of the company.

These data have been furnished by several departments, and before long the company's attorney will begin drafting
general rules and regulations for the government of the pension department.
It is understood that the pension system will embrace the 500 or more employees in the general offices, the shop
workmen in Pullman, Detroit, Wilmington, Del., and St. Louis and every porter in the company's employ. The capacity of the Wilmington shops is about to be doubled, which will add
several hundred to the roster. In establishing a pension system the Pullman company will be following the lead of several of the railroads, notably
the Illinois Central, the Pennsylvania
and the Northwestern.

Generally speaking, the system will
be managed by a board, to be made up
of the officers of the company, which
shall have the power to make and enforce rules, determine the eligibility of employees, fix the amount of allowances
and prescribe the conditions under which they shall be paid.

It is understood that with shop hands
and sleeping car porters the age of 60
years will be made the limit of service.
Employees, however, who have reached
the age of 55, and who have been continuously in the service of the company for ten years, may retire upon a pension. The ages of compulsory and voluntary retirement and the length of
service required to entitle employees to receive pensions are yet to be determined. While the general plan used by the railroads will undoubtedly be followed in the Pullman system, it is likely that a wider latitude will be allowed owing to the character of the service.

The following basis of paying pensions is the popular one and will undoubtedly be considered by the company: For each year of service allowance of 1 per cent. of the average monthly pay received for the ten years
preceding retirement; thus if an employee has been with the company for
age for ten years $50 per month regular wages, his pension allowance would
be 40 per cent of $50, or $20 per month.
It is understood that a liberal sum
will be set aside as a guarantee by the company that the pensions will be paid
and that a rule will be put in force preventing the employment of persons who have reached a certain age.

In connection with the proposed system it is said that the officials of the company consider it in the light of a
co-operative plan, inasmuch as it permits of an employee enjoying a fair proportion of the company's earnings after he becomes incapacitated by reason of old age.

The officials of large corporations are
also beginning to view the pension plan
as a safe and equitable solution of many labor difficulties, and it is generally believed that the practice of pensioning the aged will become general with companies demanding large capitalization.

The Pullman board to which the plan will be submitted is made up of the following: Marshall Field, O. S. A.
Sprague, Henry C. Hulbert, Henry R.
Reed, Robert T. Lincoln, Norman B.
Ream, William K. Vanderbilt, J. Pier-
pont Morgan, F. W. Vanderbilt and W.
Edward Webb.

The Mysterious Sunday Disease.

Many people are seemingly well during the week, but afflicted with all manner of ailments when Sunday comes around, and on Monday they are all
well again. I really dread the approach of the Lord's day, for with the
day there come to many of my flock
colds, sick headaches, pain in the side
and nausea, while numbers complain
of "that languid feeling."

Sunday before last I spent really an anxious day, for there happened to be absent from the services quite a number, for the best of reasons, of course—
a rushing in the head, a touch of sciatica, cramps, toothache, hardness of hearing, catarrh, torpid liver, inflammation of the membranes, lumbago and, worse than all, "that tired feeling."

Then, what greatly distressed me the next day was that Mrs. Henry Van Blarcom had issued invitations to an
"at home" for that evening, and the fear well nigh paralyzed me that but few would respond, seeing many of her invited guests had been absent from the Sabbath services. Imagine, then, if you can, my profound surprise to see
on that Monday evening so wholly unexpected, so general and complete a recovery, and when I made inquiry concerning the Sabbath ailments only two
were able to recall what had really before the matter with them the day be-

Playing For Keeps.

I have observed in the larger game
of marbles which we call "making a living" that most of the boys are
"playing for keeps" and only a few for fun and that those who are playing
for keeps are the boys with the most influence and standing in the community. I know a whole lot of boys,
some of them living in Massachusetts
today, who are playing for keeps, but instead of marbles they are using
wheat or corn or railroad stocks. No
one of them knows just whom he is playing against, but each knows that
for each dollar he wins a dollar is lost
by some one else.

Nevertheless I am old fogey enough to say that for myself I do not regret my early training, nor am I ready to leave behind its principles, but as long as
the majority of parents wish their
boys to be successful it seems to me
you ought to make it clear, that playing marbles for keeps is an excellent way of drilling boys in that acquitiveness which will make it possible
for them in after years to provide their wives and daughters with silk dresses,
opera cloaks and automobiles.—Springfield Republican.

"Father of Elks" Dead.

New York, June 7.—George W. Cumberland, known to the American stage as George W. Thompson, "Father of the Elks," is dead in Brooklyn, from blood poisoning, following an operation upon his hand. Funeral services will be held today. He was born in New York city in 1836. He is said to have founded the order of Elks.

TAYLER ON THE TARIFF.

The views of Congressman Robert W. Tayler, of this district, recently expressed before the industrial commission, are attracting wide attention and much favorable comment. Mr. Tayler made two points. They are that trusts are harmful, but that tinkering with the tariff is not the way to curb them. He said the removal of the tariff on steel would probably hurt the steel trust to some extent, but it would do irreparable injury to the workmen, and to the manufacturers of steel, tin plate and other products in the manufacture of which great quantities of iron and steel are used.

He maintained that the formation of any combination that gives men such great power as is wielded by the heads of the various trusts is a menace to the people. He ridiculed the idea that publicity would remedy or curb the trusts, and frankly stated he knew no remedy for them. He showed that the biggest trusts were greatly overcapitalized, and the inference may be drawn that the public will some day grow weary of buying watered stock at the behest of trust promoters.

Concerning the tariff, Mr. Tayler announced the general principle that the history of the country for the past few years and the present conditions demand that there should not be the slightest relaxing of the tariff principle as now embodied in the Dingley bill.

The relation of the tariff to trusts, he said, is only incidental. The Dingley law embodies, he said, the idea that the American civilization is on a higher plane than any other, and requires a higher reward for its labor to maintain that excellence. When ever the labor cost is greater than elsewhere it is necessary that there should be an equalizing influence, such as the Dingley law. Primarily, therefore, the protective tariff was in the interest of labor. Even the farmer, he said, gets a reciprocal benefit. Trusts were not the outgrowth of protection, though some trusts might thrive under it, just as the sun might cause weeds to grow.

DOCTORED MILK.

A Cincinnati medical journal gives some hot weather advice that ought to be of value in this city, in view of the recent reports that "embalmed milk" is sold by certain local dairymen. The following extract from the Lancet-Clinic is certainly worthy the attention of others besides medical men:

"It is well that physicians should be on their guard in cases of sudden sickness in families, and ask for samples of milk, ice cream and butter used in the family for analysis. These samples should be submitted to the family druggist by the family physician for analysis. If formaldehyde is found as an explanation for the illness, civil suits for damages should be brought against the dairymen who vended the milk. Any of the large city newspapers could institute a searching examination of the milk supply of a city and attain startling results.

"The milk that does not sour during a thunder storm or remains unsoured in hot weather without ice is to be placed under the ban of suspicion. The milkman who carries his cans about in the hot sun without any pretense at keeping the same cool should be closely observed and his milk supply tested by the family druggist."

The folly of going to law over a trivial matter was illustrated in the common pleas court at Zanesville the other day when an action to recover damages for the killing of a dog was dismissed and the costs charged against the plaintiff. His experience in litigation cost that gentleman over $500, all for a dog probably not worth two cents, and the dog is still dead.

Columbiana, with a population of less than 1,500, is proud of having graduated 14 pupils from her high school at the recent commencement, and she has a right to be. The record is one seldom matched in a town of that size.

Damage suits and damage verdicts against the city of East Liverpool suggest that defective highways are an expensive luxury that could well be dispensed with.

Wellsville's school census shows a gain of 109 over last year. Wellsville is gaining in more ways than one.

OBITUARY.

Miss Annie Schad.

F. G. Oschmann, of Walnut street, on Saturday received a telegram which announced the death of his niece, Miss Annie Schad, at Chicago. Miss Schad was ill with consumption and several months ago left for a trip through California, Mexico and Arizona, in the hope of benefiting her health. The trip did her no good and she was on her way to her home in Pittsburg, but died at Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Oschmann and family will attend the funeral, which will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Francis Macauley.

Salem, June 10.—Francis Macauley died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Penman, Saturday. He was born in 1811, at Glasgow, Scotland, and has been a resident of this country for a number of years and ten years in this city. In 1836 he was married to Miss Margaret Gardner, whose death preceded her husband about 10 years. He was the father of nine children, three of whom are still living: Mrs. Thomas Steel, of New Philadelphia; Mrs. Alexander McCoy, of Youngstown, and Mrs. William Penman, of this city.

Mrs. Susan Smith.

Rogers, June 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Susan Smith died last night at 9 o'clock at the home of Charles Burson, near Rogers. She was 79 years old and an old resident of the county. She had been suffering from paralysis for many years. She was the mother of the late Judge P. C. Young. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 1 o'clock; interment at Achor.

John A. Staub.

Alliance, June 10.—The funeral of John A. Staub, who died Friday, was held here today. Mr. Staub was 79 years old and a Mexican war veteran. He was a railroad conductor for 18 years, but later in life was employed in the freight office here.

Colonel H. J. Barnes.

Warren, June 10.—Colonel H. J. Barnes, for years prominent in politics and business in Trumbull county, died at the sanitarium in Cuyahoga Falls. Mr. Barnes from 1880 to 1886 was recorder of Trumbull county.

Mrs. Samuel Middleton.

Information has been received at Leetonia of the death of Mrs. Samuel Middleton, at New Albany, Ind. Mrs. Middleton had spent her entire life in Leetonia and Washingtonville up to about a year ago, when the family moved to Indiana.

CATHOLIC JURISDICTION.

Gibbons Wants Washington Ablegate to Look After Cuba.

Rome, June 10.—It was asserted in reliable quarters that Cardinal Gibbons, in the course of his frequent conferences with Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state; Mgr. Nozalada, archbishop of Manila, and other high ecclesiastics, in addition to effecting a settlement of the question of the properties of the religious orders in the Philippines, is negotiating for an extension to Cuba and the Philippines of the jurisdiction of the apostolic delegation at Washington.

Students May Quit University

Salina, Kan., June 10.—A committee, representing the students of the Kansas Wesleyan university, who are a unit in defense of Dr. Frank D. Tubbs, professor of natural science, dismissed last week, on account of alleged heresy, issued a manifesto denouncing the board of trustees for "duplicitous and unfairness." The board agreed to allow Dr. Tubbs a hearing next week, but still positively refuses to reinstate him. The incoming junior and senior classes still seem determined to carry out their threat to leave the university if the trustees shall not accede to their demands.

Funeral of Horace Pell.

New York, June 10.—The body of Horace Porter Pell, the young actor and former society man of New York, whose tragic death occurred in Cleveland, O., several days ago, was buried Sunday afternoon in the Pell family burial lot in Trinity cemetery, New Rochelle. Funeral services were held at the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. R. R. Upjohn, assistant rector of the church, officiated. The services were attended, besides the family, by a large number of both the society and theatrical friends of the deceased.

THE LOCAL POTTERIES

ders, says the East Liverpool correspondent of the Crockery and Glass Journal. These seem to be increasing in number and volume, and are really a menace and damage to prices and good potting, especially when trade begins to show a little dullness. There is a single coffee and spice house in one of Ohio's inland towns that is said to use six carloads of pottery a month in its scheme trade. These goods are given away with sales and are bought at prices in most instances 'way below the regular sales schedule. This not only has a depressing effect on the regular market, but has a tendency to sloppy manufacturing. The goods are taken at reduced prices and are to be given away; hence manufacturers are inclined to rush them through with little care, and in the cheapest, roughest manner. And this is not all.

We are told on the authority of some of the best practical manufacturers that operatives get demoralized by this and fall into the habit of doing rough work. They thus deteriorate productions where the best are required. These scheme goods go out in some instances with the pottery's band on and are distributed to families all over the country. Although the latter can't complain if the quality of goods given away doesn't prove to be satisfactory, yet they form a poor opinion of the pottery whose brand is on them, and are pretty sure not to buy any of this brand when purchasing. If it is unbusiness-like to take scheme orders at reduced prices, it is more so to turn the goods out below grade.

James Hall, who is employed at the Laughlin No. 2, was struck in the forehead by a falling brick and received a painful wound while drawing kiln Saturday afternoon. The missile cut a large gash above his right eye, which bled so profusely that he was unable to work during the remainder of the day. He was able to resume work today.

Charles Lacey, of Salem, who took the contract for the brick work on the Lisbon pottery plant, has thrown up the job and all the bricklayers are out of work. The work of laying brick was only begun on Wednesday and no brick was laid Thursday. The contract has been relet to Hill & Wallace, of East Liverpool, and they will have men on hand to begin to lay brick on next Wednesday morning.

John Williams, the giant kiln hand at the East End plant, returned to his home at Trenton, N. J., this morning, having been called there by the serious illness of his little daughter. He will probably return to East Liverpool soon, bringing his family with him.

Mrs. John Goodwin, of Longton, Staffordshire, England, arrived in this city Saturday evening. She was met in New York by her husband, who has been employed at the West End plant for some time. They will make their home in this city.

A. J. Allison, formerly of Toronto, has resigned his position as boss kilnman at the Canonsburg pottery, and returned to East Liverpool, on which occasion his fellow workmen presented him with a fine gold headed umbrella.

Thomas Robinson, manufacturing manager of the George C. Murphy Pottery company, will set out June 29 for a two months' trip through Great Britain.

T. W. Bradshaw has resigned his position in the decorating department at Thompson's, and left Saturday afternoon for his home at Niles.

Harry Hunter resigned his position at William Brunt's Saturday and left this morning for Salem, where he expects employment.

Richard Foutts has resigned his position at the Cartwright plant, owing to illness. His place was taken by John Miller.

Miss Clara Tucker, who is employed in the warehouse at the National plant, is off duty on account of illness.

The foundation for a new kiln to be erected at the Cartwright plant was commenced today.

Harry Holzman, who is employed at the National plant, spent Sunday with friends at Lisbon.

The Peoria (Ill.) Pottery company offers its plant for sale.

Henry Cain has accepted a position with the E. M. Knowles China company.

MERELY SUPERSTITION.

PEASANTRY IMAGINE FIRING OF CANNONS KEEPS OFF HAIL.

Prof. Moore Issues a Statement Regarding Experiments Made in France.

Washington, June 10.—The extensive reports of United States Consul Covert, at Lyons, France, relative to the success of cannon firing France as a means of protecting orchards and vineyards from hail storms, and also for the purpose of mitigating or nullifying the effects of frosts upon vegetation, have prompted numerous inquiries by horticulturalists in this country as to when, if at all, our government would adopt similar methods of protection.

Prof. Willis L. Moore, the chief of the weather bureau, acting under direction of Secretary Wilson, therefore has issued to the press the following statement:

"After an examination of all that has been published during the past two years, my conviction is that we have here to do with a popular delusion as remarkable as is the belief in the effect of the moon on the weather. The uneducated peasantry of Europe seem to be looking for something miraculous. They would rather believe in cannonading as a means of protection and spend on it abundance of money, time and labor than adopt the very simple expedient of mutual insurance against the losses that must inevitably occur.

"The great processes going on in the atmosphere are conducted on too large a scale to warrant any man or nation in attempting to control them. The energy expended by nature in the production of a hail storm, a tornado or a rain storm exceeds the combined energy of all the steam engines and explosives in the world. It is useless for mankind to combat nature on this scale.

"After the experience that this country has had during the past 10 years with rainmakers I am loath to believe that the bombardment of hail storms will ever be practiced or even attempted in the United States, much less encouraged by the intelligent portion of the community. Every effort should be made to counteract the spread of the Italian delusion which has been imported into this country by Consul Covert."

Consul Smith, of Leghorn, says that Italy is making constant progress in the development of its manufacturing industries, especially in the northern section. A more extended market is offered for American machinery and tools. Consul Cramer, of Florence, notes among the imports from the United States into that section bicycles, leather, tools, locks, cotton, oil, tobacco, agricultural machines, dynamos, watches, asbestos, corn, salated meat, lard, India rubber goods and books.

Consul Heingartner, of Catania, says that American revolvers are finding a large sale in Sicily; also our sewing machines, lard and lubricating oils. The Catania branch house of a sewing machine company sold 714 machines last year. Shooks also are arriving from Maine in large quantities.

Consul Johnson, of Venice, notes that the Paris exposition was the means of bringing the improved American printing presses to the attention of local journals, which are now installing the new apparatus.

There is a demand in Venice for oil cloth and stoves, and the consul regrets that merchants who have written to American manufacturers of these articles have received no answer.

Consul Jarvis says that Milan is developing rapidly and is in a prosperous condition. When the Simplon tunnel is opened business will be still further improved. American agricultural machinery, he adds, holds the market in that section of the country. More of it is used than ever before. Traction engines, not yet introduced, would find a market if of one cylinder, 20 effective horse power, and of not more than 13 tons gross. The sale of cash registers and typewriters is increasing. Many of our canned goods are found on the shelves of the leading grocers.

There is a chance for American stoves of a cheap pattern, also for leather, both raw and made up as belting, trunks and shoes. The trade in office and house furniture could be extended, and American cutlery and machine tools for iron and wood industries would find a market.

SMALLPOX SPREADS

Three Houses Are Under Quarantine And Much Uneasiness Is Felt.

The smallpox at New Cumberland is spreading. Three houses are now under quarantine. In one of these a man and his wife are both down with the disease, and four children are shut up with them. In another one, a shanty boat, the man is down with the disease and his wife and seven children are quarantined in the boat with him.

In all of these cases the attending physicians have pronounced the disease smallpox. Physicians have been kept busy investigating, but only the few genuine cases have developed. All of the nearby towns are said to be strongly in favor of quarantining against New Cumberland.

MILL TO START SOON

Chester People Assured That the Plant Will Not Be Idle Long.

Chester people are excited over the various contradictory reports concerning the rolling mill. The general belief is that the mill will be put in operation as a tin plate mill at no very distant date. A positive statement to this effect was made by John Shrader, a several Chester people this morning, and it is reported by good authority that W. H. Banfield also gave out this information when he visited the mill Saturday.

A new engine and some new machinery arrived at the mill Saturday and the force of men who were dismantling the plant were dismissed this morning. All of the machinery which was originally placed in the mill has been removed.

Of course the machinery which has been removed could not be used for making tin plate. Nothing is being done at the mill today and the next move is awaited with much anxiety.

PRISONERS SET FREE

Those Arrested on the Gallagher Shanty Boat Served But a Short Time.

The three women and the man who were arrested on Gallagher's shanty boat on Memorial day and sentenced to 30 days in jail by Justice Johnston, were released by the authorities at New Cumberland Saturday, after having served 10 days. The quartet came back to East Liverpool at once. Some legal technicalities were involved in the sentence and it was claimed by the prisoners' counsel that a justice of the peace had no power to sentence any one for more than 10 days.

The object of the sheriff was to break up the resort, and as the boat had been removed to Pittsburgh it was deemed useless to retain the prisoners at the jail longer.

MURDER TRIAL IN GROVE.

Preliminary Hearing, With About 2,000 Spectators.

Galena, Mo., June 10.—An unusual scene was presented here at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. John Stallion, her father, James Crabtree, and his two sons, Frank and Charles Crabtree, for the murder of Alice Stallion, the woman's 15-year-old step-daughter. The hearing was being held in a grove, the two justices sitting at a table under a tree, and about 2,000 people, attracted from points for miles around, forming a circle about the court and defendants.

Threats had been made against the Crabtrees by many of the strangers in town and the county officials were taking all the precaution at their command to protect the prisoners. Galena is off the railroad, and the fact that 2,000 people would come to come miles to attend the hearing is considered significant.

It had been intended to exhum the body of the girl that it may be examined to investigate a theory of the county prosecutor that a criminal assault was made upon her by one or both of the Crabtree boys, and that they killed her to hide the crime.

Fish and the Alphabet.

Perhaps the funniest thing to be told respecting the antiquity of fishing relates to the holy wars which were waged in ancient Egypt over the funny denizens of the water, the conflicts arising from the circumstance that, as often happened, one tribe would insist with the utmost irreverence upon eating up the fishes which the inhabitants of an adjoining territory held in divine adoration.

The child of today, in learning his alphabet, calls the letters by their names simply because the ancient Phœnicians were pleased to make similar figures the symbols of certain sounds, and it is thought very likely that the Phœnicians have been driven to invent that alphabet by the necessity of corresponding with peoples of various tongues incidentally to the great commerce which grew out of the fishery.

A notable event in the history of the Masonic order at Leetonia was the inspection of Leetonia lodge, No. 401, F. & A. M., in that town Friday night, an unusual feature for an event of this kind in a city of the grade of Leetonia being the presence of the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand lodge of Ohio.

Work in the third degree was followed with the inspection of O. P. Sperra, of Ravenna, Right Worshipful Grand Junior Warden of the Grand lodge of Ohio. F. S. Harmon, of Akron, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand lodge of Ohio, was present as a guest.

After the degree work and inspection, the Leetonia lodge, with their visiting brethren from Salem, Lisbon, Columbiana, Pittsburg, and other points, sat down to an elegant banquet in the opera house. The banquet was served by the ladies of the Christian Endeavor society. Addresses were made by the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Right Worshipful Grand Junior Warden, Dr. T. T. Church, as Master of the Salem lodge, and J. R. Flickinger, as Master of the Columbiana lodge.

Eureka circle No. 86, elected the following officers at the meeting last Tuesday night: President, Bert Herschner; vice president, Charles Hanley, Jr.; guardian, Elmer McDevitt; secretary, D. F. White; accountant, Zed T. Smith; treasurer, J. B. Elliott; chaplain, T. W. McCain; guide, W. C. Smith; porter, Joe Pollock; watchman, Louis Marsh. Five new members were initiated at this meeting. At the recent biennial convention of the Supreme circle of Ohio, a new law was passed. The one most important to local members makes the term of office one year instead of six months as has been the case heretofore. The change met with general favor.

The Ladies of the Golden Eagle on Friday night held a social and dance after their meeting. It was found the piano had been moved out. A large crowd was in attendance and the ladies, not wishing to disappoint them, secured a mandolin club and proceeded with the entertainment. Although the program had to be cut out an enjoyable time was had by all present.

The Odd Fellows Building company, of Youngstown, has closed an option on the Webb property, on West Boardman street, and will erect thereon its new temple and Odd Fellows club house. The lot is 83x150 feet in dimensions, and the price paid was $7,800. The proposed building is to cost $26,000.

Iroquois Tribe No. 40, Improved Order of Ren Men, at their meeting last Thursday evening, initiated two and conferred the chief's degree on one candidate. The order is at present making arrangements to confer the Haymaker's degree on 20 candidates in about two weeks.

Rev. G. W. Gorrell, of the Christian church, yesterday preached an impressive sermon to the Knights of the Golden Eagle, they attending church in a body.

The Sons of St. George initiated two candidates at the meeting last Friday night.

Violets of the Coal Age.

Botanists of Luzerne county are interested in a strange discovery made recently along the Susquehanna river south of Pittston, Pa. The members of a class found a species of violets growing in a solid bank of coal, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. The roots were imbedded in the coal, and their origin is traced, it is said, to seeds of the coal age.

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

"I trust that nobody will forgive me until I ask for forgiveness," I said.

She looked at me, her eyes full of rebellion. I thought she was going to raise her hand to strike me, but women are so changeable and uncertain. Instead she held out her hands meekly.

I bound her wrists together and noticed that they were white and well mottled. The handkerchief was soft and could not pain her at all, and, besides, her hands were bound in front of her and not behind her. She need feel no inconvenience, but she must realize that her opportunities for mischief were diminished vastly. Old Put looked at her with an air of triumph, as much as to say, "Now, miss, you are being punished, and punished deservedly, for beating me so much." That seemed to be her own understanding of herself.

We resumed our march, the horses walking behind us. The rim of the sun was now meeting the rim of the earth, and the western skies were tinged with rosy fire. In the east the misty gray of twilight was descending on field and forest, and the chill of night was creeping over everything. Even in our South Carolina latitudes the nights are cold in midwinter, and I shivered at a twilight wind, with a raw edge to it, swept over the plain.

There was a heavy cloak hanging at her saddle horn, for she had not ventured upon her journey unprepared. I took it off and threw it over her shoulders. It fell below her waist like a great coat, and I buttoned it securely around her neck.

"You are a barbarian," she said. "I know it," I replied, "but I do not intend to let you suffer more than is necessary for your own good. That is the kind of barbarians we are in this country."

The country was lone and desolate, for we were on the sterile slopes of the hills. It was thinly peopled at the best of times, but now, raided incessantly by Tarleton's legion, which knew no mercy to anything, whether animate or inanimate, and plundered, too, by wild bands which claimed to belong to either army, as the occasion served, and perhaps belonged to neither, the people had fled to seclusion, where one side or the other was master. Only those who have seen it know the sufferings of a country harried by opposing armies and predatory bands. I had hoped to find some friendly farmer bolder than the rest with whom my prisoner and I could find shelter, or if not that, at least some abandoned house which would give us a roof, but I saw no sign of a human face except our own, and no roof appeared either in the fields or among the trees. It was a solitude bleak and cold, and the declining sun, now half way behind the earth, warned me that it would soon be time to stop, for the darkness would be upon us, and in a land of hills, gullies and no roads we could not travel well without light.

Despairing of such shelter as I had expected, I turned our course toward a thick grove of trees rising like a great castle on the left. When we entered it, the shadows already made darkness there, and the night wind moaned among the dry branches of the trees. I saw the girl shiver, and again I felt pity for her in spite of all that she tried to do, though I lost none of my mistrust and caution.

Almost in the center of the grove was a small open space, sheltered from the crash of cold air by the great trees which grew so thickly around it. It seemed to me to be the likeliest spot we could find for a camp. I hitched the horses to boughs of the trees and took from my pocket a small flask of that cheer which a good soldier seldom neglects. I drew the stopper and handed it to the girl.

"Take a little of this," I said. "You must if you do not expect to catch your death of cold."

"I would if I could," she said, "but I cannot while my hands are tied."

I unbound her wrists and replaced the handkerchief in my pocket.

Her face flushed.

"You can't escape it," I said, "and the king can't hang me before he catches me. It's a long way from London to South Carolina, and I hear the king is fat and lazy and suffers from seasickness."

But she drank the whisky, just a little of it, though enough to put more sparkle in her eye, and handed the flask

to me without a word of thanks. Then she sat down on a fallen tree and looked idly in front of her as if she had no interest whatever in anything.

I gathered up armfuls of the dry brushwood and tossed them into a heap, to which I set fire with the flint and steel I always carried. The fire blazed up rapidly and snapped as it bit through the wood. Its merry crackling drowned the desolate moan of the wind, and the long red ribbons of flame and the fast forming bed of live coals threw out a kindly heat that fended off the chill of the night. Even the girl, angry and humiliated as she seemed to be, felt the influence of the light and warmth and edged along the log until she was much closer and the fire could shine directly upon her face. Old Put was frank in his appreciation, coming to the full length of his tether and wagging his head in a manner which said to me as plain as day, "You have done well."

Even the stupid brown hack understood and imitated Old Put's example. Higher rose the fire and drove back the shadows, but the darkness was now rolling up to the circle of light, and beyond the sparkle of the flames began to rise like a wall. The sun was gone, and a faint, fading pink tint in the west marked the way his flight had taken him. Over all the world the twilight drooped, and the winter wind mourned the dead day.

"Are there ghosts in the forest?" suddenly asked the girl.

"How?"

"So much wilder."

"I had heard of their forests there, or rather what they call forests—some acres of trees, with the undergrowth cut away and the lawns shaven, every road patrolled by keepers or workmen, a mere plaything of a forest—but here in America are the real forests, just as nature made them, the desolate wilderness through which the wild animals howl, while the lone wind plays its song on the branches or leaves of the trees. This is the real forest, a place in which man becomes about as big as a cork on the sea. Never the lone hunter, though 50 years his home, fails to feel its immensity and desolation. The girl drew the edges of her cloak a little more tightly and moved as close to the fire as the end of the log would allow her."

She rose without a word, and I rolled the log well within the warmth of the blaze. She resumed her seat, and the firelight flickered and played over her face, tinting her cheeks with deep red and spangling her bronze gold hair with patches of scarlet and crimson. The little red cap had been pulled securely down on her head, and, sitting there in the alternate light and darkness, her figure lithe and strong, she looked like some Saxon wood nymph.

But I did not cease my good deeds. I call myself a thoughtful trooper, and from the saddlebags I carried across my saddle bow I took a cold chicken, a piece of cold boiled ham and some hard biscuits, a dinner fit for a prince, or rather an honest American citizen, which was better, in these hard times of war. To this royal collection I added a canteen well filled with water, remembered the stout little flask in my breast pocket, and the repast was complete, all but the serving.

Her eyes sparkled at the sight of the good things. Wood nymphs, Saxon or other, must eat.

"Let me carve the chicken," she said.

"You have neither a table, plates nor a knife," I said.

"This log will serve as a table, some of those clean dry leaves as plates, and you could lend me a knife."

"How could I lend you a knife, a weapon, after all the tricks you have tried to play upon me? You don't forget this, do you?"

I took the little toy pistol with which she had tried to shoot me out of my pocket and held it up before her, but she laughed. Women don't seem to have any conscience, or at least they forget their crimes, which is convenient for their peace of mind.

I distrusted her as much as ever, even more, but I opened the blade of my clasp knife and handed it to her.

"A very good knife," she said, "but I have no doubt it was stolen from an

a Boston man, upon it.

"A vile rebel town, the worst of them all," she said.

But she took a good drink out of it, and when she handed it back to me I imitated her example. Then, while the fire crackled and blazed higher and the circle of light widened and the darkness beyond it thickened, we ate and drank, and I grew cheerful. I had defeated all her attempts, and tomorrow I would find Morgan and give her into other hands and be rid of all my troubles, yet I was compelled to admit once again that she was very beautiful with the firelight flickering and playing over her face and hair, but all the world knows, as I have said, that the handsome women are the most dangerous, the most cunning, and I was on my guard against any new attempt of hers to escape. Still, when I looked around at the blackness of the night and heard the sigh of the cold wind above the crackling of the fire, I did not think that she would dare to attempt it. I knew no woman who would venture alone on a winter night into that uncanny wilderness, and, knowing it, I felt easy.

CHAPTER IV.

SUNNY AND SONG.

The horses looked jealously at our supper. I was sorry for them, especially for Old Put, whose great, intelligent eyes said in the purest English, "I, too, am hungry, master." But I could do nothing. I had no provender for horses, and so I told him to wait as best he could until morning and I would find something for him if I had to rob a patriot farmer to do it. He bowed his head in resignation like the wise horse he was, while the brown hack, not so well bred, tugged at his bridle rein and thrashed about until I threatened him with a big stick.

After the chicken the girl served the cold ham and drank from the canteen again. I did likewise. Moreover, I urged her to wet her lips at the flask a second time as a further precaution against cold, which she did literally and no more. I was liberal rather than literal, for I was a soldier and knew its value. I took my blanket from my saddle bow and urged her to wrap it around herself, but she said "No;" that her heavy cloak was sufficient, and she would not deprive me even if I was a misguided rebel. I saw that she spoke truly, as her cloak was of the most ample character, and so, having no further compunction, I wrapped the blanket around me, Indian style, and, sitting down on the dry leaves in front of the fire, leaned my head against the log. She sat on the log at the other end, leaning her head against a dead bough which was thrust straight up in the air. I had put the remains of the provisions back in my saddlebags.

Triumphant, warm, well fed, my cheerfulness, my satisfaction with myself, increased. I stared into the bed of red coals and saw figures, pictures, there. Near the center of the bed the coals had fallen into such shape that I could trace distinctly the epaulets of a general, and I knew that those epaulets were for me. The coals crumbled into new shapes and built the house which was to be mine when the war was victoriously over and I was ready to retire to it with my honors. She, too, seemed to be engaged in the same business, for she was staring with half closed eyes into the dreamy coals.

"Why are you a rebel?" she asked.

"Is it from pure perverseness, for they say all you Americans are so?"

"They say many things about us in England that are not true," I said, "and this is one of them. The English themselves have often been rebels, and their present royal family, one of the worst they have ever had, and they have had the Stuarts, was placed on the throne by a just rebellion."

"You must know," she replied, "that in England the character of the sovereign is nothing. It is the sovereign principle. The worse the sovereign the better the court likes him."

We relapsed into silence and our study of the red coals. Old Put whinnied gently, raised his head and looked beyond the fire, as if he saw something in the darkness impenetrable to all but horse eyes.

"I'd better see to that," I said. "Old Put is not going to give a warning for nothing. He has a character to lose."

I STARED INTO THE BED OF RED COALS.

"None that I ever heard of," I said. "It is so unlike England."

"How?"

"So much wilder."

"I had heard of their forests there, or rather what they call forests—some acres of trees, with the undergrowth cut away and the lawns shaven, every road patrolled by keepers or workmen, a mere plaything of a forest—but here in America are the real forests, just as nature made them, the desolate wilderness through which the wild animals howl, while the lone wind plays its song on the branches or leaves of the trees. I distrusted her as much as ever, even more, but I opened the blade of my clasp knife and handed it to her.

"A very good knife," she said, "but I have no doubt it was stolen from an Englishman. Ah, here it is—the name of an English maker on the blade!"

"It was not stolen!" I exclaimed indignantly. "I took it from him fairly at the battle of Monmouth, where he fell into my hands."

"That, I suppose, is a good enough title for a rebel," she said and began to carve the chicken.

It was a fine, fat chicken, beautifully roasted, and she showed that she knew how to carve, for she deftly clipped off a leg, which she held up before me.

"That looks fat and good to eat," she said, "and it's a fine chicken, but I've no doubt it was stolen from a loyal subject of King George."

"It's not true!" I exclaimed in some wrath. "He was a Tory farmer, I admit, but I did not steal the chicken. I took it before his eyes, and he never said a word."

"Afraid, I suppose, but it doesn't make any difference to you. It will taste just as good to a rebel. Here, take your piece on this big, clean leaf and eat."

I took the piece and ate. She carved off a portion for herself, too, and ate with a good appetite. Then I handed her the canteen of water and told her to take a drink.

"Don't be afraid," I said. "I took that water out of a clear brook in the wilderness, and the land through which it flowed belonged to God, not to any Englishman or Tory."

Prompt Justice.
In the "History of Beverly," Mass., the following anecdote is related of a good justice of the peace in the old colonial times. On a cold night in winter a traveler called at his house for lodging. The ready hospitality of the justice was about being displayed, when the traveler unthinkingly uttered a word which his host considered profane. Upon this he informed his guest that he was a magistrate, pointed out the nature of the offense and explained the necessity of its being expiated by sitting an hour in the stocks.

Remonstrance was unavailing, for custom at that time allowed the magistrate to convict and punish at once, and in this case he acted as accuser, witness, jury, judge and sheriff, all in one. Cold as it was our worthy justice, aided by his son, conducted the traveler to the place of punishment, an open place near the meeting house where the stocks were placed. Here the traveler was confined in the usual manner, the benevolent executor of the law remaining with him to beguile the time of his tedium by edifying conversation.

At the expiration of the hour he was reconducted to the house and hospitably entertained till the next morning, when the traveler departed with, let us hope, a determination to consider his words more carefully before giving them utterance in the hearing of a conscientious magistrate.

Saturday and Sunday Nights Production of a Fairly Good Haul.

Saturday and Sunday nights were productive of four cases in police court. All day Sunday there was not the least disturbance of any nature, and it was not until the shades of darkness appeared that the officers had occasion to assert their authority.

Two culprits were picked up Saturday night. Sam Lichtenstein was found at a late hour by Policeman Aufdeheide in the alley at Armour's meat house, near the C. & P. depot. He was fast asleep and reposing on the paving brick. The officer had some difficulty in getting his prisoner to the bastille, and this morning Lichtenstein was fined $5 and costs. He did not have the necessary cash, and is yet behind the bars.

Ed Mosby used poor judgment in the satiation of his appetite and overdid the thing. As a result he fell into the clutches of Officers Thompson and Dawson. When he appeared before the mayor a charge of drunkenness awaited his consideration. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $1 and costs.

Charles Shepard fell into the law's meshes because of his over-indulgence in strong drink. Officer Stafford colared the victim and put him in the Hotel de Davidson. He became obstreperous when the officer took hold of him and was locked up with difficulty. His honor imposed a fine of $3 and costs on Shepard, and because of his inability to pay he still lingers in durance vile.

Mike Dalton, who claims Pittsburg as his home, was arrested by Officer Davidson for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. When he was searched at the city jail $20 was found in his pockets. The mayor relieved him of $7.50 and allowed him to take his departure.

Officers Aufdeheide and Stafford arrested W. R. Meannough on Smoky this afternoon, and took him to jail in the patrol. Meannough hails from Wells-ville, and when captured was very drunk. He will be given a hearing this evening.

"Yes, and he's engaged in the public service."

Such Stuff as Dreams Are Made Of.
The materials of dreams may be enumerated as memories of waking sensations, memories of waking thoughts and new sensations received in sleep, whether from without or within. Dr. Gregory mentions of himself that having on one occasion gone to bed with a bottle of hot water at his feet he dreamed of walking up the crater of Mount Etna and feeling the ground warm under him. He had at an early period of his life visited Mount Vesuvius and actually felt a strong sensation of warmth in his feet when walking up the side of the crater, and he had more recently read Brydson's description of Mount Etna.

On another occasion, having thrown off the bedclothes in his sleep, he dreamed of spending a winter at Hudson's bay and of suffering distress from the intense frost. He had been reading a few days before a very particular account of the state of the colonies during winter.—Cassell's Magazine.
